REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

Borough of Manhattan.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceed-ings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the de-cedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty re-gardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of de-cedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

Borough of Manhattan.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which the covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which the covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000-$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceed-ings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the de-cedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty re-gardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of de-cedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, if will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Plats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which the covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000-$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter F before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceeding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed of conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

Five Mill Tax Rate When Personalty is Taxed

Analysis of Conditions and Laws in This State by John J. Merrill
Shows How Real Estate Can Be Relieved

BY JOHN J. MERRILL,
Member New York State Tax Commission.

THERE can no longer be any question in the minds of those who are acquainted with the present tax laws that primarily they are so arranged as to be adverse to the best interest not only of home builders and realty owners, but also to all who occupy homes, factories, stores and other rented realty.

Necessarily anything that can be presented upon this important subject in the brief space allotted to this paper must be somewhat desultory and at best can only furnish food for reflection.

Let us examine the sources of the present unsatisfactory situations; how they came into existence; why they have persisted; what their effect, and finally what if any remedy may be applied.

"All wealth has its origin in the soil." This ancient axiom has been used for many decades as the basis of an argument for the total or partial exemption of personal property from taxation. These interests, assuming the axiom for a premise, have argued that because wealth is the property basis of all taxation and all wealth if from the soil, hence the real burden should be carried by real property, and they have sought and have succeeded largely in securing exemption for their personalty.

Neither time nor tribulation has served to show the burden-bearing owners of realty how specious has been this reasoning. In fact there is no actual relation between the axiom and the so-called premise. They might as well have started with the premise "Allah is good" and concluded that as Allah wished to be particularly good to personal property, therefore personal property should not be taxed. Nor have the realty owners and others affected by the scheme recognized how great the burden borne, nor how far reaching the effect not only upon their own interests, but also upon the major portion of our population generally. If some among the number have seen through the scheme they have not thus far succeeded in impressing upon the masses of those similarly situated the seriousness of the real situation.

It is a wise saw that "What is everybody's business is no one's concern." Apparently this state of affairs is "everybody's business." It will never be alleviated until some concerted action is taken with enough force behind it to impress legislators not only with the justice of their cause, but also with the fact, which is most important, that there is a real potentiality behind the protest. In the presence of these two provisions action may safely be anticipated and if proper plans have been provided, the desired result will be attained.

It was of little moment in the earlier days of our government whether taxes were levied against real or personal property since the great body of wealth resided in real estate and personal property generally was held as incident thereto. Under such circumstances it is not strange that the theory of the taxation of wealth or property (evinced generally by land and buildings) grew and gathered ground for itself in which it has thrived without regard to consequences.

Note, however, that even in the earlier days deductions for debts against real estate were not permitted. On the other hand there have been allowances made not only for the debts existing against personalty itself, but also deductions for the indebtedness of real property are legally allowable against personalty.

Finally another step was taken and the mortgage against real property could be offset against personal property which was not directly impressed by any debt whatever, and for a small consideration exemption was purchased for the mortgage. The whole arrangement reminds me of what the poet said of the Chinaman's que:

"He turned him around, he turned him around,
And still it hung behind him."

A former President of the United States was once charged with the statement that "The soil remains in its place." Laws have been changed but, to paraphrase, the tax remains in its place, and always in the same old place.

The many schemes for the reduction or elimination of taxes against personal property are too numerous and too well known generally to require repetition here, and to so repeat them will serve no useful purpose.

It is plain to those who have closely followed the course of events relating to taxation that these exemptions and exceptions in favor of personalty have been granted because of the somewhat plausible plea that personal property subject to debt was not wealth belonging to the holder and that, in fact, the only interest of the holder in the property was the equity which he had at the time. Why the rights of personal are superior to those of real property does not yet appear.

Exceptions and exemptions and offsets for debts have grown with the growth of the country and the accumulation of wealth. The inconsiderable offsets of the earlier days have grown to gigantic stature in these later times. Today the shadow cast by this Colossus, grown fat and formidable by feeding upon the fruits of others' labors, falls across the fair fields formerly occupied by the less liquid, more visible, and consequently always contributing real estate to the detriment of all who own or occupy realty.

Money generally does not seek investment in lands and buildings because they neither offer the remuneration nor the ease of disposition offered by stocks, bonds and other forms of securities. This all results in reducing the intrinsic value of real property and raising the rental thereof only to have it largely consumed in taxes for the benefit of those protected by the government and not contributing towards its support.

This is the full fruition of those theories which take as their prime factor as the basis of taxation either wealth, property or the ability to pay. If we are right in this conclusion we must look afield for some reasonable and satisfactory solution of our problem.

In this connection we are confronted at the first step by the question—Why should there be a tax? Manifestly for the support of government. Why do we have a government? A question seemingly simple but apparently seldom considered. A just government is the instrumentality through which the individual may best secure the protection of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It is government alone that protects the holder of property (and the term property includes personal as well as real) from the greed of another stronger or more cunning than he, or from a combination of men seeking to confiscate whatever he may have of any material value. Government in fact is the one instrumentality by which justice may be obtained, and government is good or evil as it serves or hinders the purposes of justice.

Let us not wander away from the salient facts that taxes are levied for the support of government and that the only reasonable excuse for the levy of a tax is the necessity of a just government.

The individual man holds for himself, and with the power to transmit to his heirs or to others both real and personal property alike because a government of some character protects him in its possession and surrounds him and those possessions with the power of the police, the courts, the militia, and with all the prerogatives of power vested in it, even to demanding and using your body and mine for that purpose, if necessary.

These conclusions lead directly to the legitimate object which we have sought; the thing for which taxes should be paid, that is to say, to protection which is granted. It is of no essential moment what the character of the property may be upon which the exaction falls. Every means by which a livelihood may be gained or a competency acquired may properly be assessed.

Property of every kind, tangible and intangible, every calling or vocation, should contribute its just measure as nearly as that may be ascertained. One class of property is no more sacred than another and, therefore, should no more be favored in taxation.

Today nothing even resembling equality exists, nor can exist under our cumbersome, complicated and inefficient system. Even the taxation of real property is inequitable in every phase. Assessments are based largely upon haphazard guesses, and the evil of inefficient assessment is only less in degree than that of fraud.

Generally those who fix values are not so employed because of their competency in such a field, but because they are better remunerated thus than otherwise.

In one of the most important branches of that most important work of government we place those least able to perform the duties. This is the direct result of taxation based upon wealth or the ability to pay. Under this scheme there has grown up among us a system of grafting upon the limbs of the tax law all kinds of freak scions. About its roots a multitude of suckers flourish and the old trunk is literally gray with lichens feeding upon the very vitality of the body upon which they rest.

These foreign growths, the exemptions and exceptions, are now "bearing fruit meet for repentance."

As a direct outgrowth of these conditions, real property taken as a state-wide consideration, surrendered for the support of government last year more than twenty-five per cent. of its gross rental value. On the other hand the tax upon personal property would be a joke except for its baneful influence upon the farmer, the real estate owner, the factory and the tenant. This condition has become so burdensome that factories and their always attendant families have removed to less exacting localities. That small percentage of our population which has ventured to have homes of its own finds the penalty even greater than the pleasure of possession, and not infrequently it happens that the home builder has found the supposedly safe investment a financial mill-stone about his neck.

It needs no argument upon my part to convince intelligent men that the best citizens of every community as a class are those who own or wish to own the roof above the heads of their families. Yet we are so arranging our tax laws that he of all men receives the least consideration.

Next to him comes the man who hires his dwelling place. The owner who rents the property may, and in most cases does, shift a portion of the burden to the rent payer, and if he fails to shift the load, in time he loses the property. But the rent payer has no where to shift the burden, and in addition to the overload of his own landlord, the balance which goes to make up much of the excess of the per capita borne by his family, he is handed in the bills of his butcher, baker, grocer, clothing dealer, and the other tradesmen with whom he deals.

During the calendar year 1916 there was collected for the support of the state and local governments in this state approximately the sum of $325,000,000. This was raised by the direct taxation of about $11,685,000,000 of realty and about $485,000,000 of personalty, and by indirect taxes for state and local purposes.

Stated in another way this $325,000,000 represented a tax of about $32.50 per capita for every man, woman and child in this state, including paupers and personal property owners. Let us see what this means to the laboring man with a family living in one of the cities of the state.

His income is $900 per year, and with this income it is necessary to support himself, his wife and two children. He pays $16.00 per month for his shelter. The portion of the property occupied by him has a value of $1,900 and is assessed at $1,600. The tax rate is $28.00 on the thousand and the tax amounts to $44.80. The overcharge for taxes amounts approximately to $30.00. This he feels directly, but somewhere, somehow, he must carry, through the shifting of the tax burden of those from whom he purchases the necessities of life, at least another hundred dollars and probably more.

This is a bare outline of the perfidy of the present tax system. To it might be added details of many shades, none of which would tend to make a more pleasing picture. There is no pleasure in the contemplation. Its "offense is rank. It smells to Heaven."

The difficulty does not end, however, with the tenant and his family. Its consequences reach out to the detriment of the factory, store, and habitation of every character.

It is fair to assume that the actual value of the real property in this state subject to assessment under existing laws is about $20,000,000,000 and that the exempt real property now listed at about $2,272,000,000 is at least $4,000,000,000.

The actual value of the personal property of this state cannot be even approximately stated at this time, but it is not presumptuous to say that it is more than three times the value of all the real estate. At present a statistician of the state tax commission is engaged in trying to determine the relative amounts, and within one week of the time this work was commenced over $21,500,000,000 of personalty

Survey of Available Warehouses and Tenements

Vacant Space in New York Listed by Building Industries for Benefit of the Government

GOVERNMENT demands for warehousing space and facilities for accommodating the thousands of industrial workers in shipbuilding and munition plants within the boundaries of Greater New York have been heavy, and Federal officers have spent considerable time in seeking buildings of the character required. In order to facilitate the work of the Government and be of all possible assistance to the departments that require warehouse space, Building Industries of New York recently undertook an exhaustive survey of the available warehousing space and accommodations for industrial workers which has been embodied in a report forwarded to all Federal departments. The full text of the report follows:

To the Heads of Departments, Boards and Committees of the United States Government:

This survey was undertaken by Building Industries of New York for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of vacant housing available for industrial workers, at a monthly rental not in excess of $50 per month and also for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of available warehouse space in existing buildings suitable for warehousing, and in buildings that could be made suitable for warehousing by alteration.

The underlying motives for making this survey were:

First: To furnish the Government with information as to the amount of housing of the character herein specified. In frequent conferences with various departments of the Government, it became apparent that this information was urgently needed so that the Government might have accurate information as to what was available for industrial workers engaged in the production of war materials.

Second: To furnish data as to housing required in New York to keep pace with the growth of the population.

Third: To locate space available for warehousing and storage use to meet the insistent demand of the Government for various phases of its work in carrying on the war.

In conducting this survey the co-operation of the following organizations in the five Boroughs comprising New York City was secured:

Borough of Manhattan.

Real Estate Board of New York.

Borough of Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, Inc.

Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Borough of the Bronx.

Bureau of Buildings of the Borough of the Bronx.

Borough of Queens.

Staten Island Chamber of Commerce.

These several Boroughs were divided into sections and members of the above organizations were furnished with industrial housing and warehousing cards, specifying in detail the character of the information desired. This survey includes only an analysis of the results ascertained. The original cards are on file in the office of Building

CONDITIONS ASCERTAINED.

As a result of this survey it was ascertained that the available industrial housing comprises a total of 7,348 housekeeping units in the entire city and 5,057,879 square feet of available warehousing space in 232 buildings. The sections in Boroughs, the amount of available industrial housing and warehousing space.

Borough of Manhattan

The Real Estate Board of New York calls attention to the following information in connection with the survey for the Borough of Manhattan.

Industrial Housing.

In determining the number of available living quarters at $50 per month or less, attention was confined to multi-family houses, the apartments available ranging from five to six rooms per suite to two or three rooms, at rentals of $12 per room, to approximately $2 per room in apartments containing the larger number of rooms. In a number of instances, it was found that living quarters of the latter kind were in undesirable neighborhoods and in map on page 5 shows in detail, by Boroughs and by houses of the poorest quality, many of them being practically unusable without very extensive repairs. In the majority of cases houses were shown to contain only one or two vacant apartments. In a few houses as many as nine apartments were shown to be vacant, these being in buildings of the poorest quality. In this Borough there were found to be 3,923 vacant apartments.

Warehousing.

In determining the amount of warehousing space, a minimum area of 7,500 square feet was taken, it being assumed that the Government would not be interested in buildings of smaller units of space. In considering the amount of space "available through alteration" allowance must be made for the opinion of the canvasser. Allowance must also be made for some buildings returned as available but actually occupied, in whole or in part. The amount of warehousing space in this Borough was found to be 3,425,745 square feet.

Borough of Brooklyn

The Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce call attention to the following in connection with the survey of the Borough of Brooklyn:

Industrial Housing.

Of the total 3,341 vacant apartments, 2,499 rent for less than $25 per month, and at least 25 per cent. are of a character which would not be suitable for the class of labor required on Government work. These houses consist mainly of old one-family houses very much out of repair, cold water tenements of the poorest class, both brick and frame, and in many cases really unfit for proper living conditions, and it is our opinion that not more than 1,500 of the total of 3,341 would be available for industrial workers.

Warehousing.

Of the 34 warehouse buildings listed, with a total area of 918,565 square feet, five are vacant breweries containing about 700,000 square feet. It will be noted that there are 68,840 square feet of available space in Section 2, indicated on the map, which comprises all of the waterfront section of the Borough, from the Navy Yard to Fort Hamilton.

Borough of the Bronx

The very small number of vacancies in the Borough of the Bronx reported by the Superintendent of Buildings, whose opinion is concurred in by real estate brokers, is due largely to the fact that the tenement houses throughout the Borough are of comparatively recent construction and are, consequently, desirable and in great demand; so much so that it is reported that there is a waiting-list for vacancies. Attention is also called to the large vacant areas in this Borough, available for additional housing accommodation as well as for Government uses.

Borough of Queens

From a report made by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, it is obvious that there is no industrial housing or warehousing space available. The character of the warehousing reported is mainly one-story frame structures, mostly sheds, not suitable for Government use.

Borough of Richmond

The Staten Island Chamber of Commerce calls attention to the following regarding conditions in the Borough of Richmond:

The Borough of Richmond has very few tenements, and these are already occupied. There are a few large old private houses which could be altered at considerable expense into two or three-family dwellings, or could be used for boarding or rooming houses.

GENERAL CONCLUSIONS.

According to the records of the Tenement House Department of the City of New York, it is shown that the total number of apartments existing on January 1, 1918, were 989,766. It can be fairly assumed that of this total 80 per cent. are apartments renting for $50 or less per month. Applying the average rate of four occupants per apartment, which is the factor used by the Tenement House Department, the total accommodations in the City of New York as of January 1, 1918, provided for 3,167,248 persons. On the other hand, the normal increase in population based on the years 1913 to 1916 inclusive, shows an average annual growth of approximately 107,000. Of this increase it can be reasonably assumed that 75 per cent. or approximately 80,000, are apartment dwellers, and that of this 80,000, 80 per cent., or 64,000, pay rentals of $50 or less per month. Applying the same factor of four occupants to an apartment the normal increase in population in New York City will require, at the lowest calculation, approximately 16,000 new housekeeping units annually.

The new apartment units built during the past five years, assuming the same 80 per cent. of the total as available at a rental of $50 per month, or less, were as follows:

1914 .....	16,460
1915 .....	18,893
1916 .....	17,087

The foregoing totals represent the apartments actually constructed and for which "certificates of occupancy" were granted by the Tenement House Department.

Plans filed for 1917, using the same 80 per cent. as covering apartments renting for $50 or less per month, represent 7,689 units. For the first six months of 1918, owing to the further material decrease in construction as compared with 1917, plans filed provide for approximately 2,000 apartments at rentals of $50 per month or less.

This average, therefore, shows that during the years 1913 to 1916 inclusive only sufficient new apartments were provided to accommodate the normal increase in population, and that in 1917 provision was made for only 50 per cent. of the normal requirement.

Based on the figures for the first half of 1918 less than 25 per cent. of the requirements for the normal growth of the population are now being constructed, and this statement is based on the reports of plans filed and not of work actually under construction.

BUILDING INDUSTRIES OF NEW YORK.

In 1910 there were in this country 20,255,555 homes. Of these only 45.8 per cent. were owned by the families living in them. Furthermore, only 30.8 per cent. were owned free of all incumbrances. During the last thirty or forty years the percentage of owned homes has been steadily decreasing instead of increasing. It is doubtful if 40 per cent. of the homes are now owned by the families living in them, and certainly no more than 25 per cent. of the total are owned free of all incumbrances.

Queens spent $2,000,000 in repairing 110 miles of highways in one year.

Queens has a live Chamber of Commerce with 400 members.

Dr. Day Before Supreme Court and Aldermen

In Asking for $300,000 He Refuses Definite Information About How He Spent $50,000

AT the close of a four hours' session, in which heated arguments and caustic repartee figured, the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday again defeated a resolution to give Commissioner of Markets Dr. Jonathan C. Day an appropriation of $300,000, with which to purchase foodstuffs to be sold to the consumer at a slight profit.

Alderman Hubbard moved to lay the resolution over for one week, but as the board takes a recess for the summer next Tuesday, it was decided to dispose of it as a special order for the day. Commissioner Day was asked to state to what use he proposed putting the money and replied that $100,000 would be expended in the purchase of eggs and the balance for other commodities as conditions might demand. He said that he is now negotiating for the purchase of 300,000 tons of coal for delivery as soon as possible.

Alderman Quinn of the Republican minority asked Dr. Day what he did with a previous appropriation of $50,000 and was told it was invested in eggs now in storage in New York and Jersey City.

"If you spent the whole $50,000 for eggs how do you pay your employees?" asked Mr. Quinn, to which Dr. Day replied that no part of the money was used for salaries or other expenses.

Alderman Worth called the attention of the chair to section 419 of the Charter as printed on Page 19 of the book of rules governing the Board as to the right of members not regularly elected to the Board voting on such matters. President Smith stated that the Corporation Counsel had given his opinion that the resolution called for an appropriation and not for a public letting and that the borough presidents could vote. The clerk was directed to note Alderman Worth's objection.

Alderman Squiers, spokesman for the Republicans, asked Dr. Day to account specifically for the previous appropriation of $50,000, before asking for any more, and also to advise the board how much he pays for storage and insurance, to which Dr. Day replied: "I refuse to answer any question asked by an individual member of this Board but will answer if the whole Board requests me to."

Alderman Squiers then asked that Dr. Day, because of his reply, and discourteous manner, be expelled from the chamber and denied further privileges of the floor.

Alderman Wolff, one of the Socialist aldermen, read extracts from a letter sent to the members of the Board, excepting the Socialist members, by the Allied Food Merchants' Association, signed by Joseph Schloss, its president, urging the aldermen to vote against the measure. Mr.

Wolff charged the absent aldermen with remaining away because of this matter and their fear of being punished by the members of this association, as other aldermen had been several years ago in a similar matter.

Alderman Moran declared that Mr. Schloss was a commission merchant representing only the big men and not the small ones, whom the Board and Dr. Day seek to protect.

The resolution was defeated—fifty-four affirmative and twelve negative votes, one short of the required number. The resolution was ordered as a special order for next Tuesday, which will be the last time it can be taken up before the recess.

A motion to vacate an order directing Dr. Day to present himself for examination before a Supreme Court justice into the affairs of his department, secured by former Senator William M. Bennett, representing the West Side Taxpayers' Association, was argued on Monday before Justice Mullan in the Supreme Court, Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward S. Malone appearing for Dr. Day.

"There is no charge of corruption in your proceedings, is there Senator?" asked Justice Mullan.

Mr. Bennett replied: "No, but we contend that if the practice of buying goods and selling them through a private account is continued, it would result in scandal."

"But," said the court, "Commissioner Day says: 'I did these things because it was right for me to do them. As to any violation of the charter, I was dealing with an emergency.'"

Mr. Bennett replied that the question was purely one of law and that an examination might develop facts which would cause the taxpayers to ask the mayor either to require Dr. Day to change his methods or to remove him from office.

Mr. Malone, in defending Dr. Day's action, stated that conditions during the Mitchel administration had been such that the authorities then advocated the passage of a law to protect citizens against excessive food charges. Justice Mullan reserved decision at the conclusion of the arguments.

It was evident at the meeting on Tuesday that Dr. Day has the united support of the Democratic aldermen and the Socialists and it is expected that before the next meeting an effort will be made to round up the absentees of last Tuesday and urge them to attend the next meeting. Alderman Moran suggested that the Board, in spite of the fact that a recess for the summer would be taken next week, continue in session until the resolution is passed if it takes all summer.

New Rules for Fire Escapes

AT a meeting of the Board of Standards and Appeals held on Tuesday afternoon, the following Rules for the Construction of Fire Escapes were unanimously adopted:

Rule 1. In any building erected prior to October 1, 1913, now occupied or to be occupied, more than five stories in height and not exceeding nine stories in height, nor in any case more than 90 feet from curb level to top floor level, one of the required means of exit or escape under Section 79B-1 of the Labor Law may consist of an outside fire escape, provided that:

(a) Any such fire escape hereafter erected shall comply with all the provisions of §79-b-4, labor law, and in addition thereto:

(1) The balconies and stairs shall be protected on the outside by substantial railing to a height of at least 4 feet 6 inches, measured from floor of balcony or center of stair tread, constructed of bars at least one and one-half (1½) inch in diameter, spaced not more than six (6) inches on centers, or of substantial grill work, or of screening not less than No. 10 U. S. gauge wire with no more than one and one-half (1½) inch mesh, all rigidly braced;

(2) When there is safe egress from the roof of the building to any adjoining structure, the fire escape stairway shall continue to the roof, and if there be no safe means of egress, a gooseneck ladder shall be provided from the top story balcony to the roof;

(b) Any such fire escape erected prior to October 1, 1913, shall conform in every respect with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this rule, except that balconies may be not less than 3 feet in width; the connecting stairs not less than 20 inches in width, and placed at an angle not exceeding 60 degrees if the building is not over six stories in height, otherwise at an angle of 45 degrees; fire windows leading to balconies may be at window sill level if fixed steps not less than 16 inches wide are provided on the inside from floor level, leading thereto.

(c) Any such fire escape erected subsequent to October 1, 1913, and prior to these rules taking effect, unless previously accepted as one of the required means of exit or escape by the administrative official having jurisdiction, shall conform to paragraph (a) of this rule.

Rule 2. A fire escape shall not hereafter be accepted as constituting one of the required means of exit or escape under Section 79-b-1 of the labor law, in any building erected prior to October 1, 1913, now occupied or to be occupied, exceeding nine stories in height, or more than 90 feet from curb level to top floor level.

Program for the Atlantic City Convention

Builders, Architects, Engineers and Building Material Producers
Will Organize for War and Peace Work

IMPORTANT problems of priority and of labor will be considered at a national convention of the building industry, comprising building material associations, architectural and engineering societies, builders' associations and industrial concerns, to be held at Atlantic City July 15 and 16 upon the call of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and with the co-operation of the War Industries Board.

The purpose of the convention is to "consider ways and means whereby the various divisions of the building industries can find a common ground upon which they may give co-ordinate assistance to the government during the war; to develop machinery whereby the industries can speak with a united voice upon matters affecting all interests involved, and to consider projects for the re-establishment and maintenance of the general prosperity of the industry."

The convention programme will give prominence to a consideration of the questions of priority in the construction of buildings, in the transportation of materials and fuel and in capital issues and general finance. The labor problem will also be considered with regard to the procurement of labor, competition for labor and the standardization of wages.

All the societies, associations and prominent concerns connected with the building industry throughout the country will be represented, and each organization has been asked by the United States Chamber of Commerce to name one delegate as its spokesman to serve upon a Central War Service Committee. This committee will elect an executive board of nine members to speak for the industry on all matters affecting the industry as a whole and to work in co-operation with the War Industries Board, the Capitol Issues Committee, the Fuel Administration and other Government bodies.

The present informal organization of the building industry was perfected at a meeting of representatives of the industry held in New York on June 14 through the initiative of Allen Walker, the New York representative of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

At that time the following Committee on Organization was appointed: B. F. Affleck, Chicago, Ill.; A. M. Maddock, Trenton, N. J.; G. F. Lindsey, Minneapolis, Minn.; F. H. Chapin, Cleveland, Ohio; J. R. Wiggins, Philadelphia, Pa., and W. D. Baldwin, W. H. Powell, H. H. Murdock, Rudolph P. Miller, F. T. Miller and Edgerton Swartout, of New York City.

This committee met on July 3, at the Engineers' Club, and Chairman Allan Walker, of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, appointed the following Program Committee: W. B. King, of Washington, D. C.; Allen Walker, of New York, and F. T. Miller, of New York. At this meeting there was also prepared a constitution and by-laws for the proposed federation which will be submitted to the convention next week at Atlantic City.

Will Use Crippled Soldiers as Elevator Men

THROUGH a letter sent to Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, by William T. Ropes, President of the New York Building Managers' Association, a unique plan of alleviating some of the hardships which must inevitably arise very shortly from the effects of the war, has been brought to light.

It is explained by one of the members of the association that the conditions arising from General Crowder's recent draft order which will effect all elevator operators and other building attendants within draft age on July 1, has already been anticipated and satisfactorily met by many building managers throughout the city by employing women elevator operators and porters instead of attempting to fill with men the vacancies caused by those leaving to join the colors.

Only in instances where elevator gates are extremely heavy has it been found more expedient to employ men. Amongst other large buildings, the Singer, 50 East 42d street, 21 East 40th street, 244 Madison avenue, are using female elevator operators with decided success. The managers of these buildings report the innovation as highly satisfactory, and that the women are greatly pleased with their work.

It is also pointed out that although the handling of an elevator is extremely tedious work, the work is not heavy and does not require personal locomotion. With this in view it is possible to use discharged maimed soldiers in elevators and soldiers with crippled legs or those otherwise unfit for work requiring greater activity.

The cripple is not helpless but capable, provided the right job is found for him, and he is trained in preparation for it. Idleness is the calamity too great to be borne. So what the cripple needs is the chance to work, and the encouragement to take advantage of it.

In the past everything has been done to make the cripple a failure. People have been lavish with sympathy and charity but short on giving him a real opportunity to make good. The attitude of the public has been a more baffling difficulty than the loss of a limb.

With the new responsibilities to the men disabled in fighting in this war, those who stay at home must make their influence a help rather than hindrance. It is no kindness to reduce them to the ignominy of dependence on others, for that makes them "crippled" indeed. Put them back in the game, make them useful, and, in consequence, make life well worth living again.

There are today many seriously crippled men—some without legs, some even with both arms gone—who are doing their full share in the work of the world. But they had exceptional strength of character to overcome the difficulties placed in their path. With a fair chance many others could do the same. In this light the problem is hopeful rather than discouraging.

The cripple needs thorough training for a trade which he can follow, and intelligent placement in employment. These the government will supply for the returning soldiers, but the responsibility for making this work effective rests with the public. Life for the crippled soldiers can be made worth while.

Building managers can help do this by reserving for cripples jobs in his buildings which they can properly fill, not as charity, but on the basis of competency alone.

President Ropes says: "Even soldiers with but one arm can be used to advantage in apartment houses and other buildings where low speed cars are used and where time is not a factor."

To the question as to whether or not crippled men can count on the New York Building Managers' Association is answered by President Ropes' letter to the Secretary of War, which follows:

May 29, 1918.

Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.

Sir: The members of this association desiring to do their share toward relieving the hardships of the dependents of those joining the colors and of maimed and discharged soldiers would like to be put in touch with the proper bureau of the government, as they desire to give such persons preferential employment in buildings under their control.

We believe that there are many dependents of soldiers who need additional income, and there are certain kinds of work in the operation of buildings which are not classed as heavy and might be done by women.

It is also possible to use discharged maimed soldiers in some classes of elevator work or as watchmen.

NEW YORK BUILDING
MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION,
William T. Ropes, President.

It is anticipated that building managers throughout the country will emulate the action taken by the New York Building Managers' Association.

All Taxes Except on Real Estate at Fixed Rates

Reply of Realty Men to Nathan Hirsch Brings Out Facts About Conditions Here and in Other Countries

REFERRING to the statement issued last week by Nathan Hirsch, chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation, there has been prepared by Edward P. Doyle a statement embodying the position of real estate interests, on the questions raised by Mr. Hirsch. In part Mr. Doyle says:

"Your statement that a fixed tax rate would be 'inconsistent with every principle of efficient business administration,' especially needs an answer. Taxes, as a rule, are at a fixed rate in all countries, except the United States, and even in the United States the tax rate is usually an arbitrary one except on real estate and certain forms of personal property.

"The income tax is at a fixed rate, all internal revenue taxes are at a fixed rate, the inheritance tax, the mortgage tax, the secured debt tax and the tax on mercantile and manufacturing corporations are at a fixed rate. The principle is recognized in our State Constitution where for the protection of certain classes of communities the limit of taxation on real and personal property, for all purposes except the debt service is fixed at 2 per cent.

"It is absurd to say that the municipal government should go on spending money and increasing the tax rate until there would be actual confiscation of equities in real property, while the taxes on other forms of wealth remained at a fixed and reasonable rate. There is no logical reason why one kind of property should be taxed at a greater rate than any other form of wealth.

"If the Government feels that the monies derived from existing sources of revenue are not sufficient to run the City government honestly and economically administered, it is the Government's duty to find a new source of revenue. New sources of revenue have given the State of New York $50,000,000 of additional yearly revenue in 20 years with no decrease in taxation of real property but with all kinds of new functions of government.

"If new sources of revenue are to be used to add new functions of government, and to further increase the number of non-producers, the ultimate result is always unfortunate because the burden on the producer is made greater. This condition of affairs can only result as happened in France, when, several years before the Great War, a French prime minister announced that every French peasant carried seven non-producers on his shoulders.

"There will be no stability in real estate values until there is a lower fixed tax rate. The fixed tax rate now, as provided by the constitution, of 2 per cent., exclusive of the debt service, is too high. It will reach in 1919, in the Borough of Richmond, 2.80, and in 1920 that rate in all boroughs, and experience shows that rate to be almost 50 per cent. of the net revenue from improved real property. A tax of one-third of the net revenue of the producer was the greatest contributing cause of the French Revolution, and we are beyond that rate in this city today. You speak of the amount the City will pay, because of the deficit in the earnings of the subways, and say this must be met by taxation. Why not meet it by increasing the fare to 6 cents and make every user pay? This is the logical thing to do. The subways are for the benefit of the user, both resident and non-resident.

Five Mill Tax Rate When Personality Is Taxed.

was definitely located, and in my judgment this did not represent more than twenty-five per cent. of the aggregate value.

If my conclusions are correct it would appear that there are more than $100,000,000,000 value in real and personal property in the State of New York.

If this property should be placed upon the assessment roll even at eighty per centum of its value, the tax rate upon all classes of property for state and local purposes would fall to less than five mills on the dollar, an exaction that would not only drive no property out of the state, but would at once prove an inducement for money to flow into the state and to find placement in land, buildings, farms and every form of real investment, and all forms of securities based upon realty values. Such a result could not fail to lend stability to our industries and to the stability of family life and legitimate investment. It would eliminate the necessity of those forms of taxation covering mortgages, investments, stock transfers, insurance premiums, and many other classes of property now assessed under one guise or another and all of which are the merest makeshift.

It seems to me that the consummation sought is clearly in sight but the methods and means of reaching it are matters that must be planned with the utmost care that one injustice may not be replaced by another.

Primarily it is certain that nothing equitable will ever be reached by sending incompetents to guess at values when they have no least conception of such properties. If every property holder was obligated by law to render a sworn statement of the value of his holdings with a reasonable description thereof to an assessor, and the present inefficient scheme discontinued, much greater values would be found than we know of even in realty, and the values of personality would prove astounding.

In many localities, both urban and rural, there exist gross inequalities in assessment. Some of these are unintentional; many are the direct result of connivance upon the part of property holders and assessing officers. In many places this condition has run to the extent of granting partial and even total exemption to large and valuable properties.

There are hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of these properties in this state illegally exempted from taxation by local assessors who either fail to realize they are increasing the burdens of those already overloaded for the benefit of those who are not only able to pay just taxes, but are making great profits in their invested capital, or else those interested have control of those charged with the duty of assessing the property. This evil will never be abated under the present system.

No one can seriously complain of the man who hides his personality from the present confiscatory tax law, but I venture the prediction that comparatively few men would seriously try to evade a just assessment at a fair rate.

There is no hope of advancement or betterment under the present tax law. There is no scheme known to me that seems to offer so many inducements and so much good as a listing system for all property, allowing a reasonable latitude of valuation and providing such penalties as would assure the prompt and proper compliance therewith upon the part of the property owner. County and city boards of review would have to be provided for with quasi judicial powers to determine appeals, and an occupation tax should be assessed against certain professions and callings. Such a system to succeed must exclude all exemptions, all exceptions, and must of necessity be state wide in its application.

In conclusion let us summarize:

At the present time we are living under a tax system that in effect is largely a single tax substantially exempting ninety-five per cent. of the personal property from taxation.

We are penalizing the owners and occupants of real property.

We are driving out manufacturing plants to more favored localities, and necessarily the employees follow their employment.

We are thereby reducing the natural growth of our towns and cities, and we are receiving as an equivalent only the satisfaction of keeping within our borders those tax slackers who are willing to be protected, to have the benefits of our markets and the protection of our government, for all of which they fail to contribute. These non-contributors serve no useful purpose in our body politic.

The Threat of Bolshevism in New York.

Many as are the significant words which the European war has added to the current language, it is to be doubted if any of the new war words carries greater significance than "Bolshevism."

Bolshevism is the latest "ism" to threaten the peace and well-being of the universe. In more than one respect it is as disquieting as that other "ism" of the earlier stages of the war—Kaiserism. While Kaiserism has now become less threatening; in fact, near to the point of being canned, the new war "ism" from Russia, Bolshevism, seems much alive and active and threatening.

A few months ago it might have seemed puerile to discuss seriously the threat of Bolshevism in New York, but recent developments have made this "ism" seem more imminent as a danger than Kaiserism. Until the United States went seriously into the war New York was in genuine danger from Kaiserism, little as did many of our best citizens realize that fact. But this danger now has been averted with the successful prosecution of the war from Washington and the victory of the Allied forces has become only a question of time.

Bolshevism, however, is a new-fangled "ism" developed by the war with which, it is plainly evident, the people of the metropolis must yet grapple. This particular "ism," while developed by the great war, might have come to the front even if there had been no great war. That Bolshevism is a real danger, a new danger, to the orderly administration of the public affairs of the great American Metropolis has been amply demonstrated by recent developments in this city.

The Rev. Dr. Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Public Market under the Hylan Administration, is just now busy not only managing the public markets but also before the Supreme Court and the Board of Aldermen. In the Supreme Court Commissioner Day is being called upon to explain how he can spend the taxpayers' money before it has been placed in his hands to be expended. Before the Board of Aldermen he is being asked to explain what he is going to do with $300,000 of the taxpayers' money if that Board approves the action of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in authorizing him to spend it.

Thus far Dr. Day has taken the position that his mission in life, officially, is to ameliorate the condition of the poor, under the beneficent auspices of the Hylan Administration, and to refuse explanations to the watchdogs of the city treasury as to how he intends spending the taxpayers' cash. The Board of Aldermen may withdraw from the position that august body took the other day and turn over to Commissioner Day the $300,000 he wants. In fact, THE RECORD AND GUIDE rather expects that will happen.

What the Supreme Court may decide about Commissioner Day's authority will take care of itself. Even if the Hylan Commissioner eventually gets the $300,000 to spend isn't so important of itself.

What is important, however, is this: If Commissioner Day can dip into the city treasury for $300,000 with which to buy eggs and fish and tomatoes and lamb and coal and succotash and ice and milk and potatoes and chicken, what is to prevent him from further dipping into the city treasury for $3,000,000 for the same purposes? What assurance have the taxpayers that these expenditures of their tax money will reduce the cost of living in the metropolis? How do the men and women who pay the money into the city treasury know that their money will not be used exclusively to reduce the cost of living of those who pay nothing into the city treasury?

Then, again, what about the thousands of butchers, bakers, grocers and other business men who pay rents for places in which to conduct their businesses? The rents they pay are in turn paid by their landlords, in large measure, into the city treasury in the form of taxes. Are all these business people to be required to "chip in" to Commissioner Day's fund to set up rival competition? Most assuredly they are. They are called upon to furnish the money with which the Hylan Commissioner may be expected to put them out of business.

Under these circumstances, it is not surprising that an important taxpayers' association already has gone to the Supreme Court to find out about the legality of Commissioner Day's expenditures of the taxpayers' moneys? Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the Board of Aldermen, before acquiescing in Mayor Hylan's plan, desires to know what Dr. Day proposes to do with the money, how he proposes to spend it, what he proposes to do with the goods after he gets them.

Mayor Hylan, members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and members of the Board of Aldermen should look carefully into this latest "ism" before surrendering to it. They should keep in mind that the party of the first part comprises the taxpayers of New York City, who furnish the money. They should go slow before undertaking to Russianize New York.

Let our public officials heed the warning which Herman Bernstein has just brought back from the land of the Bolshevized Russia.

"Friends of the Bolsheviki are no friends of Russia," Mr. Bernstein declared in a recent article in the New York Herald, and Mr. Bernstein knows.

Officials who recognize their obligations to the taxpayers of the metropolis will not be carried away by this latest "ism." They should not permit New York to be Bolshe-vikized by Mayor Hylan, Commissioner Day or anybody else.

Revision of Tax Laws Necessary.

The subject of taxation is a dry one, and to most people an incomprehensible one and to practically everybody provocative of unprintable language. We look on a tax as a necessary evil, but an evil nevertheless of the direst kind, ingeniously, subtly and malevolently bent on abstracting money from us and diverting it to some vaguely known, remotely located and probably tremendously extravagant

This attitude of mind of the ordinary business man towards taxation is likely due in great measure to the impossibility of devoting the necessary amount of time to the study of the reasons for taxation, the uses to which the money derived by this means is put, the sources from which it comes, the untapped and half hidden reserves from which additional amounts might be derived and the laws of regulation and intricate machinery of government fashioned to draw in and pay out the stupendous sums that each year flow through the Treasury.

The whole subject is so huge, so complicated, of such intricate gestation and growth, and of such delicate organization because of the manifold and complicated interests involved that the majority of men prefer to acknowledge their inability to master its details; the charlatans confidently advance their nostrums with promises of great reforms, knowing that the ignorant mass cannot intelligently refute their arguments and the few who have the knowledge of the principles and the actuation of taxation are hard to find and modest in the pronouncement of its true purpose in the scheme of government.

When, therefore, a man of ability and practical affairs who has from choice devoted his whole business life to the study of tax problems gives us in clear and simple language in the space of a magazine article the results of his investigation and experience it would be manifestly an injustice to ourselves, at a time when the burden of taxation was never so onerous, if we did not give heed to what he has to say of the evils that exist and the opportunity to modify or correct them.

Hon. John J. Merrill, who has written the article on taxation which is printed in this issue of the Record and Guide, was for many years head of the Corporation Tax Bureau in the office of the State Comptroller. He is now a member of the New York State Tax Commission. In the discussion of the Boylan bill last winter at Albany Mr. Merrill was constantly called upon for information and advice in shaping the proposed legislation and his help was invaluable. He has made a business of getting at the truth upon a subject few people can fathom.

Mr. Merrill, in summing up his facts, declares the belief that there are more than $100,000,000,000 in real and personal property in the state of New York. The startling but not altogether surprising thing is that in one week $21,500,000,000 personalty was definitely located by a statistician trying to determine the amount of this kind of property accessible for taxation.

"If this property (real and personal) should be placed upon the assessment roll, even at 80 per cent. of its value," says Mr. Merrill, "the tax rate upon all classes of property for state and local purposes would fall to less than five mills on the dollar, an exaction that would not only drive no property out of the state, but would at once prove an inducement for money to flow into the state and to find placement in land, buildings, farms and every form of real investment, and all forms of securities based upon realty values. Such a result could not fail to lend stability to our industries and to the stability of family life and legitimate investment. It would eliminate the necessity of those forms of taxation covering mortgages, investments, stock transfers, insurance premiums, and many other classes of property now assessed under one guise or another and all of which are the merest makeshift."

There would be few, we are sure, who would hesitate to place themselves fully in the power of the Tax Gatherer if they were assured that Mr. Merrill's deductions are correct, and the Record and Guide assumes they are.

The present day is the time to go to the bottom of the matter. There never was a more favorable moment for readjustment of the iniquities, the inequalities and the ineffectiveness of the existing tax laws.

Be Ready When War Ends.

The United States Chamber of Commerce is moving in behalf of the building industry.

The effectiveness of the help that will thus be forthcoming must depend to a great extent upon the well-connected and well sustained co-operation of the industries and individuals concerned.

Without the full participation of every branch of the industry and of practically every unit in each branch, the best efforts of the Chamber of Commerce or any other agency will fail of their best possibilities.

Doubtless all business men are sufficiently impressed with the idea that co-operation with the Government at this time is a part of every one's patriotic duty. Governmental boards and many department officials have been emphatic in their insistence upon co-ordination for purposes of contact between business and Government. The co-operation of men strongly actuated by patriotic motives may, therefore, be counted upon, though there may be some who feel that they are in other ways giving sufficient service to the nation.

Many business concerns will be impelled to join in any concerted action in the hope of some immediate benefits to their respective business. There are those, however, who have such war orders as to absorb their output and, therefore, feel no need of help. In other cases the market for product has been nearly destroyed, or the source of supply cut off, so that there seems no hope of relief.

But here is one ground upon which all can unite—the highly patriotic and the less actively patriotic, the man whose goods are all contracted for and the man whose market or manufacturing facilities are destroyed. All alike have a keen interest in the preservation of the industry for service after the war.

It is the history of associated effort that only financial stress will start it, but once started it takes permanent form. Its benefits having been established, those in interest are loath to forego them.

This is the time of stress in our industry and now a creation is possible which shall be of lasting value.

I am a widow with two sons in the army. Have a house which throws off hardly any revenue and would like to know whether the mortgagees can foreclose against me for non-payment of instalment on principal of mortgage on my property, providing I have paid interest and taxes. If the property was transferred to my sons in the service, would this protect the property for them? I am not in a position to pay off the principal or any part of it.

MRS. A. S.

[Assuming that the terms of the mortgage permit foreclosure upon failure to pay instalments of principal, the right to foreclose is not impaired as to the widow by the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Rights Act. The transfer of the property to the widow's sons at this time would not change the situation in any way.—Ed.]

Reformation Policy for Mutual Mistake.

IN a suit to reform a fire insurance policy for mutual mistake the policy holders must prove that it was the intention of the insurance company to have the policy read as the insured allege it should have read. The words "mutual mistake," in the rule that equity will reform contracts therefor, mean a mistake shared by both parties, and such mistakes generally relates to a mistake concerning the contents of a written instrument. Where a second policy is based on statements of ownership made for an expired first policy and contains the same error as to ownership as the first policy, the mistake is a continuing one, and, if equity could have reformed the first policy, it can reform the second.—Fort v. Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co., 169 N. Y. Supp. 229.

Restrictive Covenants.

The New Jersey Court of Chancery says, Pearson v. Stafford, 102 Atl. 838, that, as porches almost invariably project from the buildings to which they belong, it would seem that a restrictive covenant which would prevent the erection of a building beyond a certain line back from a street, but silent as to porches, ought not to be construed to prevent the building of porches within the prohibited area, and who shall say how extensive the porches may be? Of course if under the guise of building a porch an extension of the building was attempted, such, for instance, as increasing the dining room space in an inclosed one-story porchlike addition to the building, thus making an enlargement of the dining room proper, all inclosed as within the building, that might well be considered a breach of the covenant. Each case would necessarily depend upon its own circumstances.

Second Mortgagee's Duty on Purchase.

The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court holds, Pilok v. Bednarski, 119 N. E. 360, that a second mortgage, authorized by power to bid in at foreclosure sale, and his bid, which was the highest, having been accepted, the deposit made, and the memorandum or certificate of sale signed by the auctioneer, became the purchaser and nothing remained by way of performance except to execute deed to himself, and, on deducting expenses, to apply the price in liquidation of the mortgage debt, retaining the balance, if any, for the benefit of those who should receive it. But execution of deed to himself was requisite to vest title in him. He was a trustee, bound to execute his trust with strict fidelity to whoever might have his estate in the premises, and he could not defeat the rights of junior incumbrancers in a surplus remaining after the mortgage debt and costs of foreclosure were paid, by failing to execute deed to himself in completion of his purchase on foreclosure. The fact that he acted in the dual capacity of seller and purchaser merely imposed a stricter responsibility when he bought for himself.

Regulation of Height of Building.

In a suit by a property owner for a writ of mandamus requiring the commissioner of buildings of the city of Cleveland to issue a permit to partition for tenement purposes the fifth story of his building, the Ohio Supreme Court, in State v. Cunningham, 119 N. E. 361, makes the following rulings: Ordinances of a municipality regulating the height, mode of construction, and use of tenement houses are a proper exercise of the police power for the preservation and promotion of the safety, health and morality of the community. A construction of such ordinances should be adopted, where possible, which effectuates the obvious purpose of their enactment. The provisions of an ordinance limiting non-fireproof tenement houses thereafter erected to three stories or 45 feet in height, and prohibiting the increase in height of tenement houses, except in compliance with the provisions of such ordinance regulating the height of tenement houses thereafter erected, apply to a non-fireproof tenement house 60 feet high theretofore erected under a duly authorized permit issued by the building commissioner of the city, who sanctioned the extension of the building to include the fifth story, with the express limitation that such story should not be used for residence apartments, but only as an attic for storage purposes. The conversion of such fifth story into apartments to be occupied as the residence of 11 families "living independently of each other and doing their cooking upon the premises" would constitute an increase in the height of the tenement house, and would result in the erection of a tenement house to a height prohibited by the ordinance. The application for mandamus was denied.

Release of Part of Mortgaged Property.

In the absence of a statutory provision as between the original parties the release of a part of mortgaged premises does not affect the mortgagee's lien upon the remainder. But, as against others who have liens against portions of the mortgaged property, a release of a portion of it may be inequitable and justify the intervention of a court of equity. This, however, can never be unless the mortgagee had notice of the liens at the time of releasing a portion of the property. And the mortgagee is not obliged to search for subsequent liens when about to release a part of his security. Before he can be charged with any duty regarding the equities of the subsequent lienors, "his conscience must be affected by knowledge of the facts upon which the equity depends or by notice sufficient to put him upon inquiry." Sherman v. Foster, 158 N. Y. 587, 596, 53 N. E. 504. Mere constructive notice, arising from the record of the subsequent liens, is not sufficient. There must be actual notice. Where, under a prior agreement, a mortgagee was to release a certain part of mortgaged property on conditions performed, it would not be inequitable for the mortgagee to release such property, although he knows that others have acquired liens on the property not released.—Gately v. Gately, 169 N. Y. Supp. 280.

Commission—Termination of Agency.

Where a broker in good faith expends time and labor, but has not had a reasonable opportunity to avail himself of the result, the principal cannot terminate the agency and use such services without compensating the broker. But in an action for compensation, the broker has the burden of showing that the defendant principal used information or services furnished by the broker in negotiating a loan after the termination of the broker's agency.—Johnson v. Columbia Mortgage & Trust Co., (Mo.), 201 S. W. 365.

Validity of Reservations in Deeds.

The rule that a reservation in a grant in order to be valid must be for the benefit of the grantor or of some one of the grantors, and that a reservation cannot be made for the benefit of a stranger to the deed, means that the reservation must be for the benefit of that grantor who, having an interest in the thing granted, may logically reserve from the operation of the grant a part of the estate or thing granted or some right growing out of or appurtenant thereto.—Lemon v. Lemon, Missouri Supreme Court, 201 S. W. 103.

Priorities.

A subsequent mortgage must yield to the lien of a vendee, unless taken without notice, actual or constructive, of the rights of the vendee. and the burden of showing this is on the mortgagee.—Flickinger v. Glass, New York Court of Appeals, 118 N. E. 792.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Little activity in short week. Several good sales made. Leasing continues good

THERE was little business in realty circles this week partly because of the holiday and also because of conditions in the market, although several sales were consummated, one involving the sale of a seven-story apartment at the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and One Hundred and Fortieth street in the St. Nicholas park section, considered to be one of the finest structures of its kind in the city and the first fireproof building erected in that section. Brett & Goode negotiated the deal.

The sale of another downtown property confirms the statement of Mr. Charles E. Noyes last week that business property in that section is in great demand and but little to be had. Samuel Brody bought from J. Frederic Kernochan the five-story building at 236 South street running through to Water street, one of the holdings of the late Stephen Whitney and sold in a partition sale in 1909 by the seller. Wm. A. White & Sons negotiated this deal. Another downtown building figured in the sales of the week when the five-story office building at 45 Maiden Lane was bought by a client of the Charles F. Noyes Company from Hugh D. Auchincloss. The Cruikshank Company was associated as broker. This building is directly opposite the site of the proposed new Federal Reserve Bank building.

A trade involving over one million dollars was consummated when The Central View apartment house, a twelve-story structure corner of Central Park West and Eighty-sixth street was sold by Charles W. Ogden to Sonn Brothers. This property was held at $1,000,000 and carries a rent roll of $120,000. In part payment the buyers gave the one and two-story buildings on the south side of Westchester avenue from Simpson to Fox street. William S. Baker and William S. Sussman were the brokers in the deal.

In a deal involving about $300,000 the old John Matthews soda water factory property on First avenue opposite Bellevue Hospital was sold to Sol Bloom. Included in this sale are the group of connected buildings at 447 to 451 First avenue, covering a plot 75x100; 329 to 339 East Twenty-sixth street, and 334 to 342 East Twenty-seventh street, fourteen lots in all.

Leasing continued fairly active with apartments showing the greater activity. In Queens the National Casket Company leased as a temporary location for a portion of their extensive plant, the greater part of a two-story concrete building containing 60,000 square feet and occupying the block front on Webster avenue between Seventh and Eighth avenues, Long Island City. The United States Government recently took over the National's big plant in Long Island City and the recent lease is to temporarily locate until the government is through with the big plant and ready to turn it back to the owners.

For Waterway Improvement.

Bronx Board of Trade, which has consistently agitated improvements for New York City waterways, has taken up the matter of improving the channels of the Harlem River, claiming, first, that the piers of High Bridge are a serious menace to navigation of the Harlem River, more than any other obstruction in the waterway.

The announcement recently made that Director-General McAdoo had ordered the Erie and New York State Barge Canal system taken over by the Railroad Administration and that steps be taken at once to provide barges and equipment, so that these waterways might effectively decrease the glut of freight now hampering railroad operations, reopened the subject.

A letter addressed to the Borough Presidents of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, Commissioner Hulbert of the Department of Docks and Ferries, and Comptroller Charles L. Craig, by the Bronx Board of Trade, urges the initiation of a movement to remove these piers.

Oil Plant for Staten Island.

Development of the oil industry and the rapid manner in which it has expanded is partly reflected in the needs of the National Oil Product Company, which has just purchased the large plant formerly owned and operated by the Elm Park Linoleum Works in Elm Park, Staten Island, directly opposite Elizabeth, N. J.

The plant was recently occupied by the Lincrusta Company works, and consists of fourteen comparatively new brick factory buildings on twelve acres of land and comprising more than 250,000 square feet of floor space.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 22 as against 23 last week and 23 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8 as compared with 14 last week and 10 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 14 as compared with 9 last week and 13 a year ago.

From the Bronx 6 sales at private contract were reported as against 14 last week and 9 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 18 of this issue.

Buy Profitable Apartment.

Circle Concrete Corporation, Louis Werner, treasurer, sold to Adele Kneeland, through Brett & Goode, the College Heights apartment house, a seven story structure, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and 140th street. The building contains fifty-two suites, totalling 199 rooms, and is completely rented. The annual rent roll is almost $40,000. The sellers valued the property at $300,000. Directly opposite is the College of the City of New York. The building is one of the first fireproof structures to be erected in the St. Nicholas Park section. It measures 99.11 feet in the avenue and 125 feet in the street. Securities were given as part payment. S. W. Straus & Co. announces that $195,000 outstanding bonds on the property, at 5½ per cent. interest, have been called at 102½ and interest. The loan of $200,000 was dated March 1, 1916, of which $5,000 first payment was paid on March 1, 1918, in accordance with the amortization plan. The loan would, under the plan, be reduced to $145,000 at the final maturity date, March 1, 1924. The bonds were made redeemable when issued at the option of the mortgagor, at 102½ and accrued interest in reverse of their numerical order. This option has been exercised.

Investor Buys Apartment.

A west side apartment house held at $350,000 was purchased by an investor yesterday. The Circle Concrete Corporation, Henry Mandel, president, sold to a client of the Brett & Goode Company the seven-story apartment building, known as the College Heights, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and 140th street, directly opposite the College of the City of New York. The building is one of the first fireproof apartment structures erected in the St. Nicholas Park section.

Sales in Downtown Section.

Samuel Brody bought from J. Frederic Kernochan the five-story building at 230 South street, running through to Water street, and covering a plot 25.6 by 160.4 by 14.4 by irregular. William A. White & Sons negotiated the deal. This property was one of the holdings of the late Stephen Whitney, and was bought at partition sale by the seller in 1909. It has been purchased to meet the great demand for storage space, and will be held as an investment. Scarcity of space in the downtown section was also responsible for the sale of the five-story office building at 45 Maiden Lane, on a plot 25 by 135, which was bought from Hugh D. Auchincloss by a client of the Charles F. Noyes Company. The Cruikshank Company was associated as broker in the transaction. The Federal Reserve Bank is to erect its new building directly opposite. Extensive alterations are planned by the new owner.

Apartment in Big Deal.

Central Park View apartment house, a twelve-story structure, corner of Central Park West and Eighty-sixth street, has been sold by Charles W. Ogden to Sonn Bros. It was held at $1,000,000. The property fronts 103.2 feet on the parkway and 150 feet on the street, and the city assesses it at $960,000. The rental is $120,000 per annum. Sonn Bros. gave in part payment the one and two-story store buildings on the south side of Westchester avenue from Simpson to Fox street, fronting 246 feet on Westchester avenue, 163 feet on Simpson street and 105 feet on Fox street. The property figured in the trade at $325,000, and the income from the stores is $33,000. William S. Baker and William S. Sussman were the brokers in the deal.

Metropolitan Apartment Resold.

Chief among the sales of the week is the Metropolitan apartment house, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-eighth street. Black, Starr & Frost, who acquired the property only a few days ago in a $2,000,000 trade with the Oceanic Investing Company for the building at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-eighth street, resold it to-day through Douglas L. Elliman & Co. to the Orinoco Realty Company (Bing & Bing). The Metropolitan is seven stories high on a plot 100.8x100. It was one of the first fireproof apartment buildings in the section, having been erected nearly a quarter of a century ago by William J. Merritt. The Oceanic Investing Company bought it several years ago for a reported consideration of $450,000.

Sale and Resale.

Two interesting sales affecting the dwelling property at 131 West Seventy-second street, announced on Wednesday by L. J. Phillips & Co. These brokers, who sold the property last March for the Home for Incurables to Daniel B. Freedman, announce a resale for Mr. Freedman to an unidentified purchaser, for whom they again sell the parcel to Walter H. Merrill of Acker, Merrill & Condit, owner of the adjoining house at 129. The house just purchased is four stories high, on a lot 22x102.2. Mr. Merrill now owns a plot 47x102.2, between Columbus and Amsterdam avenues.

Old Soda Water Factory Sold.

Sol Bloom has purchased the old John Matthews soda water factory property on First Avenue, opposite Bellevue Hospital, in a deal involving about $300,000. Included in the sale are the group of connected buildings at 447 to 451 First Avenue, covering a plot 75 by 100; 329 to 339 East Twenty-sixth street, 150 by 100, and 334 to 342 East Twenty-seventh Street, 130 by 100, fourteen lots in all. Extensive alterations will be made and several of the buildings reconstructed.

Wants and Offers, For Sale and For Rent—Rate 15c. per line; count six words to the line.

Employers anxious to secure help (clerical or professional), or employees wishing to obtain a position or better a present one will find this department of the Record and Guide the quickest and most direct method of bringing their wants to the attention of the largest number of interested readers, in the real estate or building professions.

No medium reaching real estate interests affords owners, brokers, and executors wishing to dispose of desirable property (in or out of the city), so favorable an opportunity to bring the merits of their propositions to the attention of possible buyers as does the For Sale and For Rent section of the Record and Guide.

PROPOSALS

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS: Sealed proposals for Sanitary Work—Underground Sewer and Water Connections—Female Group, Letchworth Village, Thiells, N. Y., will be received by Mr. Frank A. RECENT LEASES.*Leases on Long Island.

Roman-Gallmon Company have leased to the National Casket Company, as a temporary location for a portion of their extensive plant, the greater part of a two-story concrete building containing 60,000 sq. ft., and occupying the block front on Webster avenue between 7th and 8th avenues, Long Island City. The National Casket Company's plant—one of the foremost in the new industrial section of Long Island City—is to be used for war work by the U. S. Government, to whom it was patriotically offered by the owners and occupants. After a search for temporary quarters extending over the five boroughs of Manhattan, this Company finally found the best available substitute space to be right in Long Island City, within a few blocks of its own plant.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

CHAS. GALEWSKI &amp; CO., INC., real estate operators, have removed their office to 51 Chambers st.

RICHARD H. SCOBIE negotiated the recent exchange involving 507 and 509 East 179th st and 338 East 137th st.

PEASE &amp; ELLIMAN have been appointed receivers and managers of the 6-sty apartment house at 370 Manhattan av, at the northeast corner of 115th st.

ALBERT BERG has opened offices at 87 and 89 Palmetto st in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, where he will carry on a general real estate and insurance business.

M. &amp; L. HESS have been appointed agent of the following properties: the 8-sty building at 13 and 15 West 34th st; also 358-60 6th av, including 63 West 22d st; 119 East 17th st, 334 6th av, 9 North Moore st, 624 East 13th st, 34 West 15th st and 26 East 22d st.

F. R. WOOD has severed his connection with the F. R. Wood-W. H. Dolson Co., after an association of seven years with that firm. He has been actively engaged in real estate, brokerage and management since 1899, when he established the business of F. R. Wood &amp; Co. No announcement has been made regarding his plans for the future.

JOSEPH P. DAY, in conjunction with R. M. Livingstone of Philadelphia, closed a lease on one of the most prominent corners in Philadelphia for Schulte Cigar Co. The property is located at the southwest corner of 15th and Chestnut sts, which was recently sold to Bonwit, Teller &amp; Co., of New York. The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $150,000.

LEWIS B. PRESTON has retired from the real estate field. Francis J. Guilfoyle, who has been identified with Mr. Preston for several years, is the purchaser of the latter's interest and has organized a new company to be known as Francis J. Guilfoyle &amp; Co. Mr. Preston entered the Government service last January and was commissioned captain in the Signal Corps and attached to the Finance Department. Since that time the management department has been in charge of Mr. Guilfoyle, while Willis Brenner has taken care of the brokerage department of the concern.

Safety Engineering in General Contracting

Constant Watchfulness and a Campaign of Education Decrease the Number of Preventable Accidents

By L. D. VON WOEDTKE
Director of Safety, Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc.

TIME and money expended in safety work not only comes back, but eventually results in an entirely new form of dividend, heretofore not considered under profit and loss. A chart of the lost time, accident classification, of Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., shows comparisons for the past three years—namely, 1915, 1916 and 1917. Taking 1915, the year this firm started systematic and organized safety work, as the basis the reduction in the accident rate for 1916 was 25 per cent., and for 1917 55 per cent. The highest quarterly reduction was 80 per cent. for July, August and September, 1917.

By way of comparison the accident cost reduction for 1916 was 55 per cent. and for 1917 was 66 per cent. The classification chart for the same period, dividing the accidents into eight groups or causes, was as follows. Handling materials, falling materials, employees falling, handling tools, nails, flying materials, machines, miscellaneous. The chart shows the number of accidents per 1,000 employees and the percentage of reduction for each year and each cause. In future it is intended to add four additional main causes, and when a monthly compilation of data indicates any cause or causes running high in percentage this group will be subdivided for two or three months in an effort

Excluding the excellent record attained at Camp Devens, the wonderful success in accident prevention has been the result of a constant and systematic program of education and mechanical safeguards, and particularly through the enlistment and maintenance of the co-operation of the various superintendents, foremen, time-keepers and men in the field. According to the figures it is estimated that not more than 30 per cent. of all building and contracting accidents can be eliminated by mechanical safeguards, and that at least 70 per cent. must be prevented by means of safety education. The educational program arranged by this concern consists mainly of periodical letters of encouragement, advice, suggestions and constructive criticism, quoting always some specific types of accidents which are showing a high percentage and always stating or suggesting specific remedies. In this way accidents from all causes have been reduced materially. Later practically the same suggestions are repeated in changed form to influence a further reduction in the number of accidents from any one cause. The Department of Safety encourages suggestions and ideas from all employees, which, when received, are quoted in the general safety letters. Many of the best methods of operation and procedure in the campaign for a reduced casualty list have been received in this manner. Pointed safety slogans at the foot of all letters sent out by the Safety and Protection Departments, have a tendency to influence the men to think in terms of "safety first." Bulletin boards are, of course, posted on all operations, and fresh bulletins are supplied periodically. Usually four bulletins are sent out at a time, and the most of these are posted temporarily until new ones are received. However, some are posted permanently. The job bulletin board is usually three or four feet square, and shows about twelve bulletins at one time. The larger projects naturally have more than a single bulletin board so that all employees may readily read the advice and suggestions displayed. This bulletin service is invaluable, as men will stop to look at striking illustrations and read large type, well versed and to the point, who might otherwise never get the "Safety Bug." The foreign laborer will also stop to look at pictures, although he may not be able to read.

*Increase.

In order to give some idea of the possibilities for safety work in general contracting a few methods employed against each of the eight main causes will be stated:

Handling Materials:

1. Proper piling and bracing of supplies of lumber, pipe, brick, cement, etc.
2. Stout, sound runways and platforms of selected materials and proper construction. No makeshifts by workmen allowed.
3. Wheelbarrows, scale boxes, blocks and falls, dump and flat cars, etc., kept in good condition, or discarded if unsafe. Constant inspection made, and employees requested to report all unsafe conditions.
4. Continual cautioning by foremen against the "dropsy" habit and butter fingers.

Falling Materials:

1. Skirt or toe boards on all stagings, scaffolds and on all exposed edges of floors and elevator shafts, openings, etc.
2. The use of closed-in chutes for rubbish and waste material.
3. Daily inspection of all hoisting apparatus and equipment on the job, and thorough overhauling at main equipment plant when returned from or sent to a job.
4. Tables of safe loads for ropes, chains and cables; also slings at various angles.

Employees Falling:

1. Railings on pits, staging, scaffolds and unused sides of floor openings for ladders, etc., and elevator hoist shafts.
2. Passageways, floors and working spaces kept clear of waste and surplus materials.
3. Good ladders with safety feet where advisable, or toed, braced or lashed to prevent slipping.
4. Gates and railings at elevator and hoist shafts, located far enough from openings to prevent any one leaning over from being struck by car or bucket.

Handling Tools:

1. Tool house and toolmen are provided on all jobs, who inspect, repair and sharpen all tools.
2. Plenty of tools provided, allowing one or more sets being repaired or sharpened while others are in use.
3. Heads of all bullpoints, chisels, drills and hammering tools dressed and trimmed every time points or edges are sharpened, thus eliminating burred or mushroomed tools.
4. All handles tightened or new handles put on when they appear unsafe.

Nails:

1. Waterboys, toolmen, etc., equipped with hammers and instructed to constantly bend over or pull out all protruding nails.
2. Stripped forms in concrete work piled clear of passageways as taken down and protruding nails piled downward.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

NOTWITHSTANDING the interruption by the Independence Day holiday there was a fair volume of new construction work brought out during the week and throughout the industry the situation seems generally more optimistic. The War Industries Board early in the week issued a statement reiterating its disapproval of building construction work that does not directly or indirectly contribute toward the prosecution of the war. In the same statement, however, the Board expressed a willingness to relieve the building industry under the adverse conditions of the war so far as possible and to consider the merit of individual projects. This no doubt will have a tendency to clarify the situation as far as priorities are concerned.

Although Federal operations are predominant in almost all sections of the country the showing of private projects is extremely gratifying, and at the present time there is considerably more work of this character than was anticipated some months ago. While conditions are anything but satisfactory, they are manifestly not so bad as they have been painted and builders and their allied interests are in a better position to-day than they thought possible early last spring.

Activity in speculative and investment building continues to grow. Throughout Greater New York and the adjacent suburban sections projects of this nature are rapidly maturing and within the next few months there will probably be a large number of operations actually under way. The demand for structures of this type, including apartments and one- and two-family dwellings, is strong and builders who are able to complete their buildings in time for the autumn renting season will reap excellent margins of profit on their investments.

Probably the most important phase of the building situation within the boundaries of the city is the continuation of alteration projects. This form of construction has been extremely active all during the year and the outlook for considerably more of it is bright at this time.

The local markets for building materials and supplies have been quiet when demand and volume of sales are considered, but prices in all lines are firm and in a number of instances substantial advances have been registered. Common brick from the Hudson River district have advanced to $12 a thousand and this figure is likely to maintain only for a limited time. There is every prospect that common brick will again be advanced before long. Manufacturers of Portland cement have recently issued warnings to the trade to place their orders before the Government makes heavier levies upon the capacity and resources of the cement industry. The prices for common and finishing limes are steadily advancing and all lime is now being shipped in paper instead of burlap. The wholesale lumber market has been fairly active and prices are jump. Many grades have sustained important advances in price during the past month and there is every likelihood that the present levels will maintain for only a limited period.

Common Brick.—As predicted last week the price of Hudson River common brick has reached $12 a thousand and although the current quotations are ranging from $11.50 to $12, the latter figure has been obtained in some sales for the best grades and there are indications that the market will advance generally to this level. The week has been light both in arrivals of barges and sales. There is but a small surplus of brick in the wholesale market at present unsold but the dealers are fairly well supplied with brick, bought some time ago when prices were considerably lower, and which they are holding. At the present time there is every prospect that brick prices will remain firm at the existing high levels. Raritan brick are still out of the local market and will continue to be until there is a radical improvement in both the manufacturing and building situations.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River Brick market for the week ending Friday, July 5, 1918. Condition of market: Demand light; Prices firm. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $11.50 to $12 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 13; sales, 12. Distribution: Manhattan, 1; Brooklyn, 2; New Jersey points, 8; outside, 1.

Lumber.—There has recently been considerable new activity in the lumber situation both as to volume of business and price. The conditions have effected particularly the wholesale interests and were not brought about so much by increased structural operations of a general character as by the direct requirements of the Government and those industries that have important munition contracts in which lumber largely enters. Retailers report that a fair volume of business is now current but mainly coming from manufacturing consumers and that the building interests although indicating strong signs of improvement are far behind in their demands as compared with previous seasons. The outlook for business from the building interests is steadily growing brighter and there is an impression in the trade that the coming months will witness a marked revival of interest in structural requirements. Lumber prices are strong and in many lines have advanced considerably above the figures of the past month. At the present time prices are mainly determined upon the ability of the dealers to deliver and distributors who are able to make deliveries with any degree of certainty are naturally able to obtain their own terms. Local transportation conditions have improved somewhat and a number of dealers in the Metropolitan district have been in receipt of excellent allotments of deferred shipments. This has considerably brightened the lumber situation and increased the hope of better times for the industry.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Federal business is the most prominent feature of the market for cast iron pipe and all private requisitions are held up pending the filling of Government orders. At the same time requirements from municipal and private sources are generally light and likely to remain unimportant until conditions generally are more settled. At the present time the producers of cast iron pipe are devoting about seventy-five per cent. of their capacity to Federal requirements. All quotations are based upon the Government figures of $61.74 for 6 in., 8 in., and heavier; $64.75 for 4 in., and $71.75 for 3 in.

Crushed Limestone.—The demand is quite active and producers have no excess supply on their hands. Business has picked up considerably during the past few weeks and the outlook for this particular line is excellent. The Government is taking large quantities for military and naval construction work in this territory and these requirements are more likely to grow than otherwise. Prices are firm and expected to hold to their existing levels for some time.

Window Glass.—There is but little life to the market and manufacturers and jobbers are not at all optimistic for the immediate future. There has been practically no demand during the past few weeks and with the manufacturing conditions upset by the scarcity of labor and difficulties of transportation, the industry is just holding on and waiting developments. Stocks in the hands of the jobbers are generally low and badly broken, with prices well sustained and likely to be advanced.

Linseed Oil.—The market for this commodity is firm and prices are advancing. Stocks are low and barely sufficient to supply the demand, notwithstanding the small volume of current requisitions. The slack building season generally has cut materially into the consuming demand, but orders are coming in from sources that have heretofore not figured in this line. There will be a scarcity of linseed oil for some months to come as new supplies will not be available until the domestic crop of flax seed is harvested and delivered to the crushers. Prices now prevailing range from $1.64 to $1.65 a gallon.

Wire Products.—Government demands are the important factor in this situation and all other orders are made subservient to the Federal requirements. Naturally the supply for private needs is considerably curtailed, and there is likely to be a shortage of both wire and wire nails designed for uses aside from Government work for some time to come. Jobbers' stocks are low and there is considerable delay in making deliveries on specific orders. Prices are based upon the Federal control figures which still maintain.

Lime.—The market for lime is quiet and prices are firm. The lack of building activity of a private nature has effected the conditions to a remarkable extent and no material increase in business is anticipated until there is a general improvement in the building situation. Wholesale prices at present are as follows: Eastern common, in 300 pound barrels, $2.50 a barrel, f. o. b. New York, and Eastern finishing, $2.70.

Rivets.—Federal requirements on direct or indirect orders are taking almost 90 per cent. of the total output of the mills and consumers are required to show priority certificates before producers will accept orders.

Lead.—The New York price of this metal was raised this week by the American Smelting & Refining Co. from 7.82½c. to 7.90c. per pound, with St. Louis price unchanged at 7.75c. per pound.

Study of the table of comparative statistics which shows the totals of contracts awarded from January 1 to July 1, for the past nine years indicates that the current year overtops all previous ones in the expenditure for construction work. The figures are for building and engineering projects in the States north of the Ohio River and east of the Missouri River, including New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and portions of Missouri and Eastern Kansas.

During the first half of 1918 the total of the contracts awarded for building and engineering operations amounted to $911,714,000, of which 33 1/6 per cent. was for the Government. These figures indicate that building operations for the first six months of this year exceeded any similar period for the past nine years. In 1917, for the same time, the total of the contracts placed for new construction reached the sum of $831,402,000 and in 1916, the third highest year the total was $596,583,000. In no year prior to 1916 did the total of contracts reach the $500,000,000 mark.

The figures for the first six months from January 1 to July 1 for the past nine years follow:

1918.....	$911,714,000
1917.....	831,402,000
1916.....	596,583,586
1915.....	413,532,600
1914.....	382,532,000
1913.....	472,372,500
1912.....	406,011,000
1911.....	416,227,813
1910.....	454,145,798

In the local territory, including New York State and Northern New Jersey, there has been a slight reduction in the gross amount of money placed in structural projects. The total of contracts awarded in this territory for the first six months of 1918 amounted to $135,001,000 of which 30 1/3 per cent. was direct Federal work.

The figures for the first half of the years from 1910 to 1918 inclusive follow:

1918.....	$135,001,000
1917.....	155,281,000
1916.....	74,922,500
1915.....	72,558,000
1914.....	65,926,000
1913.....	158,017,500
1912.....	122,328,000
1911.....	129,784,000
1910.....	144,918,000

SAFETY ENGINEERING.

2. Stripped forms in concrete work piled clear of passageways as taken down and protruding nails piled downward.

3. All loose boards or planks with protruding nails continually picked up or nails bent over by all men on the job.

Flying Materials:

1. Goggles are kept on every job, in every tool box and tool house.

2. Foremen are held responsible for men wearing goggles when chipping or drilling concrete, stone, iron, steel, etc.

3. Extra sets of chipping and drilling tools provided to allow one or two sets always being sharpened or repaired while others are in use.

Machines:

1. All gearing, revolving projections, keys, set screws, clute jaws, etc., thoroughly enclosed on mixers, hoisting engines, drums, winches, cranes, steam shovels, saws, etc.

2. Headless set screws, shaft and pulley housing wherever possible.

3. Adequate grab handles and steps on locomotives, cranes, steam shovels, cabs, dump and flat cars, etc.

4. Correct guards on gauge glasses and water column.

5. All saws (circular, split, cross-cut, overhead or treadle swing, band, etc.) equipped with approved safeguards, such as spreaders, blade enclosures, travel limits, table guards, etc.

6. Jointers or buzz planers provided with cylindrical or safety heads.

7. Pulley blocks equipped with side plates or flanges to protect mesh point between ropes and blocks.

8. Hooks for large hoists, cranes and derricks provided with handle on back.

Miscellaneous:

1. Acid carboys equipped with wooden frame inclinators.

2. Exposed electric wires, switches, transformers, etc., protected against personal contact wherever possible by barriers, enclosures, cabinets, etc.

3. Adequate shoring in excavations, or tops kept broken down to prevent cave-ins.

4. Appropriate danger signs, tags and warnings.

5. Fire prevention boilers, safely housed; smoke stacks fitted with spark guards, salamanders fitted with spark screens. Fire extinguishers provided on all jobs.

There are naturally many other methods being used by this concern in furthering its plans for accident prevention, but the ones described are the most important and from which the gratifying results were obtained.

Cantonment Contracts Fair To Government

Modified Cost-Plus Plan Secured Prompt Beginning and Efficient Carrying Out of Work

By PAUL STARRETT

President George A. Fuller Company

TO ask whether one industry or another has had fair treatment from the Government is to inquire into a subject which is of very minor interest to the public, and is of small importance in comparison with the object being striven for by those in charge of the conduct of the war.

Considering the results which have been attained by the Government, one cannot fail to be impressed by the courage and general good judgment which have been exercised to obtain them. It is undoubtedly true, as in all great undertakings, that the same men would avoid mistakes which have been made if they had the same problems to solve over again. The important fact is that the results have been wonderful and the men who accomplished them were at the same time patriotic and sacrificing.

In an emergency such as confronts the country, it would seem good judgment to mobilize all the ability and experience available in all lines. This would call for the employment in building work, for example, of tried building organizations, allotting the work in scale with the ability, experience, and responsibility of the existing building firms.

This is no time for experiments, when the lives of our soldiers depend on quick results. Therefore, however interesting it might be for an ambitious department to build up an organization to do its own building, the wisdom of so doing is questionable, as experience and training in the art of building are as important for good results as practice and study are to produce good results in any line.

The question of a plan of producing results at the lowest final cost to the Government is first in importance. The two plans of contracting in ordinary civilian business are the "lump sum" plan, where the contractor undertakes to turn over a piece of work complete for a certain fixed sum, and the "cost-plus" plan, which has several forms, but all are based on the principle of an agreed-upon fee for the service of the builder, the owner paying the cost. The lump-sum plan can only be successfully used where the owner has complete plans and specifications for his work before employing the contractor, and therefore calls for adequate time to prepare such plans and study out all the details in advance. Lump-sum work on a rising market is extremely hazardous, and no prudent contractor would undertake a contract of any magnitude under present conditions unless he were protected by a very large margin and a margin which might have appeared adequate at the time of our entrance into the war would look ridiculous now, in view of the enormous advance in the price of building materials and the advance in the price of labor and deterioration in its efficiency.

Therefore the second plan would seem to be the only practical one under the circumstances. The situation confronting the Government at the beginning of the war was one where an enormous volume of work was thrown upon it. All of this work had to be done in the shortest time possible. There was no time to get plans ready, as the requirements of the army and navy and the various manufacturing plants which had to be built entirely or added to in order to take care of the needs of the war needed careful study, and it was necessary to start work on different enterprises in such a manner as to get the quickest completion, studying out and completing the plans as the work progressed.

In this emergency the Government worked out a plan of percentage contract, which was adopted on all the cantonment contracts, whereby a sliding scale of commission was paid, the rate of commission decreasing as the size of contract increased. A limit of $250,000 was placed on the amount of commission a contractor could receive on one contract, and this limit was arrived at when the work amounted to $5,000,000, which allowed the contractor to 5 per cent of his work. As none of the contractor's overhead expenses could be charged under this form of contract, it can readily be seen that the profit a contractor could make was very reasonable.

After the amount of the contract passed $5,000,000 the balance of the work had to be done for no additional compensation, which resulted in each contractor performing from $2,500,000 to $6,000,000 worth of work for no compensation whatsoever, as the cost of these cantonments ran from $7,500,000 to $11,000,000 or $12,000,000. The commission on smaller contracts was fixed at considerably less than the customary commissions paid in the ordinary contracting business before the war.

Other forms of contract were used by various branches of the Government, some where larger commissions were paid, but it does not appear that in any case any more was paid than would have been in ordinary business. It is to be noted that the cantonment form of contract was available, and any contractor would have been willing to work under it.

As an illustration of the operation of the cantonment contract, the contractor for the cantonment at Fort Riley, Kansas, was given an order to proceed with the work on the 28th day of June, before the plans were completed, and a camp to take care of forty thousand men, including buildings to house the soldiers, sewerage, plumbing, heating, and power plant, with an electric lighting system, was sufficiently completed to receive the first ten thousand men on September 4, just a trifle over two months. The problem of assembling the materials and collecting the force of mechanics, numbering at one time over nine thousand, in an out-of-the-way place, and carrying out the work economically and in a wonderfully short time, is one which few appreciate.

A prominent Government official has stated that there were any number of contractors who would have been glad to undertake any of the large cantonment contracts for a fee of $50,000. This is undoubtedly true, but the cost of the completed work to the Government would have been very much greater and the time of completion very much longer. A building firm properly organized for undertaking one of these large contracts would have the work half done, with their properly trained men, in less time than it would have a small contractor, unused to handling big work, to get together an organization, which at best would be experimental.

Moreover, notwithstanding the fact that the Government was supposed to supply all the money to carry on the work, the contractors for the cantonment referred to above had to advance more than three-quarters of a million dollars to keep the work going, while the Government officials were checking accounts and vouchers. An organization equipped to handle such a volume of business efficiently and economically, and which had the financial strength and supply of trained men to draw on to man the work, could only be built up by years of careful study and intelligent hard work.

Considerable criticism has resulted from the fact that the Government has departed from the ante-bellum custom of awarding contracts only on a lump-sum basis, after the most exacting competition. In peace times this method is possible, although it is doubtful if the results have been as good as they would have been if the best contractors had been chosen instead of the cheapest.

It is impossible to make any reliable estimate of what work is going to cost under present conditions. The immense volume of work being done by the Government is thrown upon the country at a time when all the young and most efficient workmen are taken out of the labor supply. The demand for labor is so great that builders are absolutely at the mercy of the scanty supply of labor. Material prices are uncertain and constantly rising. Conditions of transportation are such that costs have increased and delays occur which have to be offset by extra effort and expense.

An effort is being made by some of the departments in Washington to adhere to the lump-sum form of contract. In the writer's judgment, if this is done generally the results will be very bad for the Government for several reasons. The first-class firms will be unwilling to compete owing to the impossibility of making any reliable estimate. Therefore the tendency will be to let the work to weaker concerns of poorer judgment, who, having very little to lose, are willing to take a chance.

If they should get away with a price sufficient to do the work, it will not be done as efficiently as it would have been done by a more experienced contracting firm; and in any event the cost will be greater than if the work had been done at a reasonable fee by an experienced contractor. If the contractor finds that he has underestimated, he will be compelled to quit when his money runs out, and the Government will have to step in.

As to profiteering, if exorbitant profit-making is meant by this term, it is the writer's belief that there has been none as far as the builders are concerned. Dishonest men will be found here and there in every line of business, but undoubtedly the same volume of business as was handled by the contractors of this country who built the cantonments under the cantonment form of contract has never been done in the history of the world by free men for less profit to themselves.

Bankers Finance Brooklyn Building Projects.

MONDAY afternoon a meeting was held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce in Brooklyn to consider means to provide housing for firms who have been obliged to vacate their quarters in the Bush Terminal because the Government has taken over their buildings. About thirty leading bankers were present. Acting Borough President Joseph A. Guider, representing the city authorities, promised complete co-operation of the city in obtaining sites and material for necessary construction.

The following committee was appointed by J. Sherlock Davis, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, to arrange for the financing and construction of buildings: Edwin P. Maynard, president of the Brooklyn Trust Company, chairman; C. C. Mollenhauer, director of the First National Bank of Brooklyn and of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn; Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company; Victor A. Lersner, controller of the Williamsburg Trust Company; Lewis

H. Lapsee, vice-president of the Lawyers Title Company; C. J. Obermay, president of the Greater New York Savings Bank, and E. C. Delafield, president of the Franklin Trust Company.

Approximately sixty-four firms, employing 12,000 people, were notified to vacate their quarters in the terminal. The amount of floor space necessary is 1,300,000,000 feet. The committee of which Mr. Maynard is chairman has formulated the following plan:

A number of banking institutions will underwrite an issue of securities to the amount of one million dollars. The money to be loaned to builders who will show that they have obtained leases on projected buildings from responsible people for a term of ten years. The loans will be authorized and the bonds and mortgages guaranteed by a guarantee company, so that the securities will prove a safe investment. The issue of securities will range in value as low as $1,000 each, so that they will attract small investors,

City Club Proposes Zoning System for Harbor

Offers Suggestions to New York and New Jersey Commission for Developing Port on Comprehensive Lines

THE Port Committee of the City Club has suggested the following as worthy of the particular study of the New York and New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission:

First—The co-ordination of the plan of the port with the general city plan by the development of a system of zoning.

The water's edge should be zoned with the same basic principles as governed the adoption of the zone system for the city's uplands. It is quite as important that similar industries using the same type of factories, serving a similar clientele, and delivering goods to the same warehouses and factories be located together as it is that residences, industrial and business buildings be grouped.

The economical development of the port requires the co-ordination of the uplands with the nearby piers. There can be no permanency to the plan of the port until a complete system of zoning has been developed.

Zoning of the Port of New York should:

1—Prevent useless hauling and handling of freight by developing of union classification and transfer yards outside of the Island of Manhattan.

2—Relate docks to receiving and classification yards so that so far as possible steamers may be loaded directly with a minimum of lightering of cargo.

3—Provide for the development of warehouses in connection with the classification yards and piers for the temporary holding and classification of goods in transit.

4—Provide facilities for store-door delivery wherever possible.

5—Relate the wholesale food markets to transportation systems and with each other.

6—Develop types of piers adopted for various classes of business.

7—Develop grain and other bulk cargo terminals with modern machinery.

8—Preserve parts of the port near dwellings and not needed for commercial uses for park purposes.

Second—The administration of the port under a single authority.

The commission should consider thoroughly the practical feasibility of creating a centralized port authority either interurban, interstate or national so as to—

1—Co-ordinate the handling of freight, without restrictions due to state and municipal boundaries and jurisdiction.

2—Develop the resources of the port to the utmost without local competition.

If a central authority is recommended the most careful study should be given to the financial systems under which it might be operated and the adjustment of present municipal investments.

Third—The development of a railroad system or systems.

To minimize waste in the handling and transshipment of freight. Study should be given to possible—

1—Classification and transfer yards on the New Jersey Meadows, with a complete system of warehouses.

2—Tunnel or tunnels under the Hudson River connecting the New Jersey yards with Manhattan and other points of the city. The need of a tunnel seems to us conclusively shown by the coal shortage in Manhattan last winter when there was coal in the cars at the New Jersey tidewater.

3—Belt line and crosstown tunnels under Manhattan.

4—Tunnels under the East River connecting Manhattan lines with those of Brooklyn and Queens.

5—Marginal railroad system for Brooklyn and Queens.

6—Connection between Brooklyn and Richmond.

7—Store-door delivery by motor trucks in connection with rail and water service.

Fourth—The Channel Needs of the Port.

A thorough study of the channel needs of the port so as to—

1—Concentrate upon the development of channels in the order of their importance.

2—Relate the scheme of channels to the needs of each part of the port under a zoning system. A practical survey of this entire matter should be made. The channel plan of the port in the past has been almost entirely controlled by the army engineers.

Fifth—Study of a pier, plans and leases.

1—Developing special types of piers for special uses with proper mechanical apparatus.

2—Planning piers as parts of terminals directly connected with warehouses and railroad lines. This would in many cases lead to a reconsideration of the layout and location of marginal and other streets, for example, if warehouses were connected with the docks on West Street it might be necessary to move that highway to the west.

3—Planning piers in such a way to facilitate the sorting and delivery of goods, avoiding so far as possible the present intolerable trucking and sorting delays.

4—Developing the ownership and control of all piers by a central authority so as to make it possible to co-ordinate the uses of all parts of the water-front.

5—Limiting the length of leases. In the Club's opinion these should be short, particularly during the period of the war so as to keep city pier property as mobile as possible. Profiteering through subleasing should be prevented. Leases should be selected not solely on the basis of rent offered. The advantage of its proposed use to the port as a whole should be given serious weight.

6—A policy for the reservation of "open piers" and co-operative use of the largest types of piers should be recommended.

7—The planning of a fish pier such as the one in Boston should be undertaken.

Sixth—Trans-shipment of freight.

A study should be made of the real value to the port and the effect on port congestion of the trans-shipment of goods with the idea of a possible transfer elsewhere of those things that are of least value to the metropolitan district. For example, it might be found advisable to transfer certain freight hauled by the use of barges to outgoing streamers to points further up the Hudson.

Seventh—Lighterage.

To what extent can a complete belt line railroad with connecting tunnels take the place of lighters and car floats? Does the mobility of lighters make their use as part of the water freight yard more economical than that of rail lines on docks?

Eighth—Dry docks.

Consideration should be given to the building of a dry

Lexington Avenue Subway to Open Wednesday

Six Miles Added to Rapid Transit Service—Another Link in "H" System

THE new Lexington Avenue subway will begin running next Wednesday at 2 P. M., between the diagonal station at Forty-second Street north to the Bronx, and thence over the Jerome Avenue branch of the line to 167th Street. The new line will add about six miles to the rapid transit service.

Just when the connection between the new extensions with the old lines at Times Square and at the diagonal station will be made is not yet known, although the commission announces that it will not take more than a few days. For the present, therefore, the spur through Forty-second Street will still serve through trains instead of being used for a shuttle service, which will be the case when the "H" system is in full operation.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company will operate only local trains on the new line and until through operation is ready. The 125th Street Station on the Lexington Avenue line will be almost as important as the present station at Ninety-sixth Street on the old subway, because it will be the point of transfer to the two branches in the Bronx, the Jerome Avenue Branch, and the Pelham Bay Park Branch. Near this station the track layout provides for the passage of northbound trains on the upper level and the southbound trains on the lower level.

To build this section of the Lexington Avenue line of the dual system has taken seven years and has cost about $58,000,000, including equipment. For practically the entire distance the line is double decked with the local tracks above and the express tracks below.

One of the big changes will occur on the Jerome Avenue line, which has been running for some time. The service here is now by subway trains to 149th Street, where connection has been made by stairway with Mott Avenue, the old subway and the Kingsbridge Road stations. North of this point shuttle service is operated to Woodlawn.

This shuttle service will be continued, but instead of subway service between 149th Street and Kingsbridge Road, the Sixth and Ninth Avenue elevated trains will operate to and from Kingsbridge Road. Passengers on the Jerome Avenue branch north of 167th Street desiring to reach points on the Lexington Avenue subway will have to travel by elevated trains and change cars at 167th Street.

When the new line is running it will not be necessary for passengers on the Jerome Avenue line to transfer at 149th Street in order to get downtown, but they will be able to travel without change to the diagonal station. This station is located under the site of the old Grand Union Hotel, in Forty-second Street.

A passenger boarding a train on the old subway south of Times Square and desiring to reach the Lexington Avenue subway will change at the Grand Central station, walk upstairs to the mezzanine level and go through the passageway to the mezzanine of the diagonal station, and so down to his train on the platform level. Passengers will be able to make connection between the two trunk lines by shuttle through Forty-second Street, between Times Square and the Grand Central station.

Stations on the new Lexington Avenue line, north of the Grand Central station, are at Fifty-first, Fifty-ninth, Sixty-eighth Street (Hunter College), Seventy-seventh, Eighty-sixth, Ninety-sixth, 103rd, 110th, 116th, and 125th Streets in Manhattan, and in the Bronx at Mott Avenue and 138th Street. North of Mott Avenue the stations are located at 149th, 161st, 167th, and 170th Streets; Belmont Street, 176th Street, New York University, 183rd Street, Fordham Road, Kingsbridge Road, Bedford Park Boulevard, Moshulu Parkway, and Woodlawn.

How Soldiers' Moratorium Affects Realty

DEPENDENTS of men in the service are protected in their civil rights by the Federal Civil Rights bills, recently passed by both houses of the National Legislature and approved by the President on March 8. The essential features of the law as applying to real estate are as follows:

ARTICLE III.

RENT, INSTALLMENT CONTRACTS, MORTGAGES.

Sec. 300. (1) That no eviction or distress shall be made during the period of military service in respect of any premises for which the agreed rent does not exceed $50 per month, occupied chiefly for dwelling purposes by the wife, children, or other dependents of a person in military service, except upon leave of court granted upon application therefor or granted in an action or proceeding affecting the right of possession.

(2) On any such application or in any such action the court may, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall, on application, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the tenant to pay the agreed rent is not materially affected by reason of such military service, stay the proceedings for not longer than three months, as provided in this Act, or it may make such other order as may be just.

(3) Any person who shall knowingly take part in any eviction or distress otherwise than as provided in subsection (1) hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by imprisonment not to exceed one year or by fine not to exceed $1,000, or both.

(4) The Secretary of War or the Secretary of the Navy, as the case may be, is hereby empowered, subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, to order an allotment of the pay of a person in military service in reasonable proportion to discharge the rent of premises occupied for dwelling purposes by the wife, children, or other dependents of such person.

Sec. 301. (1) That no person who has received, or whose assignor has received, under a contract for the purchase of real or personal property, or of lease or bailment with a view to purchase of such property, a deposit or installment of the purchase price from a person or from the assignor of a person who, after the date of payment of such deposit or installment, has entered military service, shall exercise any right or option under such contract to rescind or terminate the contract or resume possession of the property for non-payment of any installment falling due during the period of such military service, except by action in a court of competent jurisdiction.

(1a) Any person who shall knowingly resume possession of property which is the subject of this section otherwise than as provided in subsection (1) hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by imprisonment not to exceed one year or by fine not to exceed $1,000, or both.

(2) Upon the hearing of such action the court may order the repayment of prior installments or deposits or any part thereof, as a condition of terminating the contract and resuming possession of the property, or may, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall, on application to it by such person in military service or some person on his behalf, order a stay of proceedings as provided in this Act unless, in the opinion of the court, the ability of the defendant to comply with the terms of the contract is not materially affected by reason of such service; or it may make such other disposition of the case as may be equitable to conserve the interests of all parties.

Sec. 302. (1) That the provisions of this section shall apply only to obligations originating prior to the date of approval of this Act and secured by mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage upon real or personal property owned by a person in military service at the commencement of the period of the military service and still so owned by him.

(2) No sale under a power of sale or under a judgment entered upon warrant of attorney to confess judgment contained in any such obligation shall be valid if made during the period of military service or within three months thereafter, unless on order of sale previously granted by the court and return thereto made and approved by the court.

Wants Seven Cent Fares and Two Cent Transfers

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Gives Board of Estimate and Apportionment Reasons for Increase

THE Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has petitioned the Board of Estimate for permission to increase the fare to 7 cents on its surface, elevated, and subway lines.

The company on behalf of the surface lines sets forth that under the franchises granted to the various companies composing the present system they would have a right to charge 5 cents for a ride on each one of the lines that have since been united. This would amount in some instances to 15 or 20 cents for a ride which it now gives for 5 cents.

The petition asks:

1. A unit charge of not exceeding seven cents for one continuous ride upon any line of each petitioner company, except to and from Flushing, North Beach, and Coney Island, where the present fare will prevail.

2. Each passenger paying a cash fare of seven cents to be entitled for an additional two cents to a transfer ticket to any intersecting line, either of the company issuing such ticket or of any of the other undersigned companies. Such transfer to be subject to reasonable rules as to use. No transfers to be required to be issued on a transfer.

"It is evident," the petition says, "and particularly since the recent rising level of prices of labor and material, that we went too far in the direction of abolishing fares. We have reached a point where justice to our service, to our employees, and to our investors demands greater revenue. We have increased the wages of our conductors and motormen five times within the last five years and should increase them again to keep pace with higher cost of living."

In his petition on behalf of the New York Consolidated Railway Company, Vice-President Meneely says: "There seems to be no reasonable doubt that, upon the completion of the railroads which your petitioner is to operate, the combined system will be earning its full preferentials and yielding revenue to apply on the city's interest and sinking fund.

"From the time that initial operation begins any deficits in meeting these city charges can no longer be added to the cost of construction as at present, but must be raised by taxation.

"Temporarily at least it would not be to the city's interest to shift the burden of this interest cost from the taxpayers to the farepayers by increasing the rate of fare chargeable under the contract. An addition of 2 cents would probably make the revenue sufficient to meet the city's interest immediately after full operation begins."

Six Cent Fare Granted in Many Upstate Cities

(Special to the Record and Guide.)

ALBANY, July 10.—Buffalo, the second largest traction line city in the State, has consented to an increase in local carfares to six cents and an agreement modifying franchise restrictions is now in process of formulation.

Troy, Watervliet, Cohoes, Green Island and other municipalities in the Capitol District group have indicated their willingness to permit the local traction company to increase the rate of fare to six cents.

Syracuse is considering the six cent fare question and reports reaching Albany indicate that negotiations between the city and the local traction lines for the increase to the six cent rate will be opened in a short time. Similar reports come from Utica.

Developments generally throughout the State as disclosed by petitions to the up-state Public Service Commission indicate that despite the recent Court of Appeals decision to the effect that the five cent fare must prevail where it is fixed by franchise in a municipality, the six cent and higher fares are coming.

The primary cause of the willingness of the big up-state cities to agree to the higher rate is the realization that the enforcement of the rate contracts involved in local franchises is tantamount to confiscation. To hold a traction line to its agreement to transport passengers at the five cent rate while the wages of the car operatives and the cost of materials are rising at an enormous rate means eventually the "scrapping" of the roads. This view has been expressed before the public service commission on several occasions during the argument of applications for increases.

The agreement of the City of Buffalo to an increase in local car fare rates to six cents followed the action of the International Railway Company which operates a number of local and suburban lines in throwing open its books for examination by the representatives of the city. The condition of the company as it had operated under the five cent fare was sufficient proof of the necessity of the higher fare.

The International Company filed a petition with the Public Service Commission this week asking for permission to increase the rate of fare in Lockport, where it operates the car lines.

"The present fare is no longer presumptively fair and reasonable," says the petition of the company. "Even the six cent fare will only partially compensate the company for losses of income from all sources and unless the additional cent in fare is granted the company will be unable to operate in Lockport, except at great loss and the creation from year to year of an ever-increasing deficit of receipts under expenditures."

In the so-called Capitol District the feverish opposition to the six cent fare project is rapidly giving way to an understanding of the needs of the local car lines. The recent agreement of all the cities in the district, except Albany, where the opposition is maintained more for political purposes, both the Republican and Democratic organs opposing the increase in order to enable them to claim the credit in the event of the negotiations for an increase falling through, is considered significant. It is believed that within a short time the negotiations for an increase in the several municipalities surrounding Albany will be completed and the Public Service Commission asked to pass upon the application finally. At an informal hearing within the last week the only opposition came from Albany and an organization in Rensselaer which lies across the river from the Capital.

In all the municipalities where it is stipulated that the franchise restrictions shall be voided by agreement by the city to the higher rate the Public Service Commission's action will be largely perfunctory. In other cities where franchises restricting the rate do not exist, the proof of the necessity of larger income devolves upon the companies making the application. With wage increases and the jump in material values this burden is not difficult.

The Ithaca Traction Corporation which last fall asked for a seven cent fare increase has filed a supplemental petition with the Public Service Commission asking for an increase to ten cents. There were no restrictions in the franchises of municipalities where this line was operating and the Public Service Commission recently granted a six cent fare increase. Accompanying its supplemental petition is a schedule of prices for materials and labor costs since 1910 and statements showing the operation of the concern at a deficit. The statements and schedules are the most comprehensive ever filed with the up-state Public Service Commission, giving in detail the complete outlays of money made by the company for the past eight years.

Work of Building Industries Co-ordinated

Association of Builders, Architects, Real Estate Interests and Material Supply Dealers Proves Its Worth

BUILDERS, contractors, architects, real estate interests, material supply dealers and manufacturers, banks and financial institutions in New York have manifested so constant and cordial an interest in the work and purposes and organization of Building Industries of New York that the following account of the purposes for which this organization was formed is presented.

The building industry is composed of several hundred different trades, involves the manufacture of a vast variety of different materials, demands the skill of architects, engineers and contractors, seeks the cooperation of bankers and financial institutions, includes real estate interests, shipping and transportation, and in New York City alone in normal times constructs annually over $200,000,000 worth of permanent property in office buildings, homes and factories.

Each of the separate units of this gigantic industry is organized, such as dealer associations, architects, engineers, lumber, building trades employers, finance, real estate, etc.; each doing an admirable work in its own field but hitherto not coordinated or centralized for united action, mutual cooperation or the interchange of ideas and policies for the general good of the entire industry.

Even before the war, the necessity for some central organization in each city was apparent. The disruption of the building industry resulting from the necessities of war have made the work of a central organization in New York City almost, if not absolutely, imperative.

In the summer and autumn of 1917 this necessity for coordination and closer cooperation of the many different branches of the building industry became so important that several conferences and informal meetings were held, resulting in the formation of a committee of fifty who selected a committee of organization which, on December 14, 1917, issued a call of the Association of Building and Allied Industries of New York for the purpose of carrying out the resolution adopted by the Committee of Fifty for a permanent organization. This call invited New York City organizations and resident representatives of larger organizations to appoint a delegate or delegation to join in a permanent organization.

The best interests of the United States Government as expressed through the Director of the Council of National Defense, the interest of the City of New York and the interest of the building industry of New York, and the millions of dollars it represents can be best served by a well equipped, thoroughly coordinated association representing all branches of the building industry and all working together in cordial and patriotic cooperation.

Aside from the tremendous value of the work which this association, known as the Building Industries of New York, is accomplishing during the war, its value to the nation, the city and the building industry will be perhaps of equal importance during the reconstruction period when war ceases and peace returns.

The work of Building Industries of New York may be made of untold value at the close of the war in hastening and stabilizing building activities as the period of reconstruction begins. Without a strongly coordinated central organization at the close of the war, the radical changes which it will bring may find the building industry suffering great hardships during the transition period—hardships which may to a considerable extent be avoided or minimized by intelligent foresight and cooperation.

Building Industries of New York, in transmitting constructive suggestions to some of the officials at Washington at their request, concluded its recommendations with a statement that they were made "for the best interest of the Nation in the successful prosecution of this war which should be the first consideration of every patriotic citizen regardless of personal or local interest."

While the war continues, this will continue to be the policy of Building Industries of New York. When war ceases this association with the same ardor and by practical methods will strive with equal earnestness for the rehabilitation of the building industry of New York and of the Nation which represents several billions of fixed capital, includes five thousand architects, two or three hundred building exchanges, one hundred or more national associations and a million and a half workers, and all of these interests day by day are seeing more clearly the value of practical constructive cooperation, intelligent foresight and timely action.

The officers of the association are:

Ronald Taylor, President; Ernest R. Ackerman, Vice-President; Laurence McGuire, Vice-President; Franklin T. Miller, Vice-President; G. Osgood Andrews, Treasurer; Frank H. Quinby, Secretary (architect); W. R. Messenger, Executive Secretary.

Directors: H. H. Murdock, Chairman; Max Baumann, J. E. R. Carpenter, C. J. Curtin, Wright D. Goss, C. A. Jackson, Charles J. Kelly, E. A. MacDougall, George H. Morris, Elliott Smith, Charles S. Wills, Frederick C. Zobel.

Realty Board Aids Y. M. C. A. Recruiting Drive

AN enthusiastic meeting was held at the Real Estate Board of New York on Thursday, July 11, to inaugurate the Board's recruiting campaign for Y. M. C. A. secretaries for foreign service.

The meeting was held under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. Recruiting Committee of the Real Estate Board, John L. Parish, chairman, and the drive for secretaries for foreign service will continue for ten days terminating on the 20th of this month.

The meeting was addressed by Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the recruiting campaign of the Y. M. C. A., and by Mr. Murvill C. Hutchinson, a Y. M. C. A. worker recently returned from France. Mr. Pratt spoke feelingly of the need for workers in the foreign field and explained the relation of the Y. M. C. A. workers to the army, outlining the business organization of the Y. M. C. A. and other phases of the work. He emphasized the need for capable business men of large calibre to fit into the various business needs of the work and the absolute necessity for other types of workers to tone up the morale of the men at the front.

Mr. Hutchinson spoke of the personal work among the men, explaining the demands made upon workers in canteens and huts and the necessity for close personal contact with all types of fighting men from home. Both of the speakers emphasized the fact that applicants for places among the secretaries should expect to find the work extremely exacting both physically and mentally, but that all the effort put forth is more than worth while.

As to the method of remunerating those who undertake the work where they cannot finance themselves a reasonable allowance is made for home expenses exclusive of the maintenance of the workers abroad, which is arranged for according to the needs at the post to which he is assigned.

The method of application and the procedure between acceptance and the time of sailing was explained, and numerous questions asked by the audience were answered. The indications were that a number of applications, some from among the audience and others whom those present had interviewed would result from the meeting.

The Real Estate Board's Committee will carry on an active campaign between now and the 20th, and every real estate office will be furnished with literature and posters relating to the work. The Real Estate Board will be the headquarters for its committee's recruiting campaign and all persons interested are requested to call or write for information.

Plans to Recruit Labor and Make It Effective

War Labor Policies Board Elaborates Details to Stabilize Distribution of Workers

WITH the gradual development of the labor recruiting plan of the War Labor Policies Board, has come the working out of numerous details, which will contribute toward the more effective stabilization of the general program. The original plan for distribution of workers for industrial war needs was intended to minimize competitive bidding among firms with government contracts and to decrease labor turn over. As long as wages remained uneven, however, certain difficulties would have presented themselves in the actual working out of the idea. Thus it has become an essential matter that proper standards should be fixed and having been determined upon should be maintained by all authority vested in the board. Action in this direction will be taken, however, only after conference with employers and with representatives of labor. Signers of the resolution include Felix Frankfurter, assistant to the Secretary of Labor and chairman of the Policies Board together with representatives of the War, Navy and Agricultural departments, the Shipping and War Industries Boards, and the Food, Fuel and Railroad administrations. The official text is given below:

Whereas the recent uncoordinated activities of Government contractors in the matter of hiring labor for war industry have resulted in competitive bidding by one contractor against another for the available labor at any scale deemed expedient for the occasion which has resulted in producing restlessness and wasteful movement of labor from one industry to another, and whereas it is absolutely essential to the stabilization of industry throughout the United States that all wages for both skilled and unskilled labor engaged in war work after conference with representatives of labor and industrial management, to be standardized; therefore be it resolved, That wages paid by Government departments and contractors engaged in war work should be stabilized by this board, that the Committee on Standardization is hereby instructed to proceed with its work with all possible expedition, and that as soon as such standardized scales are established the full influence and authority of all departments of the Government represented on this board will be exercised to maintain them.

The total success of this plan for the centralization, recruiting and distributing of war labor, which will include skilled as well as unskilled workers, depends in part upon the attitude with which it is regarded by employers, and their ability and willingness to co-operate with it. Although the order does not go into effect until August 1, plans have already been outlined in Baltimore for the apportionment of that labor which will constitute its allotment. As a move toward co-operating with and assisting the Employment Service in its work, the manufacturers of the city have joined together in deciding to deal with it through a single committee. Thus the difficulties of individual representation will be considerably lessened. The fourteen industrial groups which are engaged in war work and are represented in this central committee, include canning and packing, chemicals and fertilizers, clothing, cotton duck, building materials, flour mills and food supplies, metals works, munitions, public utilities, ship building, structural iron and steel, textiles, woodwork and miscellaneous. The committee, which will be known as the Labor Distribution Committee for Baltimore, will follow the same principles which have already been established by the War Industries Board. Industrial needs will be given attention proportionate to the importance of their war production, but the essential character of the committee will permit a certain latitude. Individual emergencies will be taken into consideration and wherever possible assistance will be extended to those firms the nature of whose production would not insure preferential treatment under priority rulings. Such a form of co-operation centralizes government action to an even greater and more efficient degree. At the same time it would seem that the needs of the various industries themselves could be more satisfactorily ascertained and met.

Still other suggestions of a practical nature which show the willingness with which the Federal plans are being adopted and even made more efficient in their application comes from a report of the action of manufacturers in Waterbury, Connecticut. Recognition of the problems connected with the masterful moving about of labor from one place to another, by which efficiency of production is so greatly reduced, emphasizes the importance of adequate housing. That labor stability and contentment reflect a very direct way the adequacy of housing conditions is not a new idea. The remedial measures planned by the Waterbury manufacturers, however, show an application of these principles, which should net results of a rather satisfactory nature. It is proposed that the committee which has been appointed should make it a duty to interest themselves in the housing conditions of their workers. The city has been canvassed and a file of available rooms kept. Thus manufacturers may be able to discover without loss of time what living accommodations near their works may be procured. Such a scheme will work out beneficially in more than one way. Not only will that labor turnover be reduced which arises from lack of housing facilities in the vicinity of the plants to which the worker has come, but in placing them in the most convenient location to their respective work, much dissatisfaction will be avoided. At the same time difficulties in transportation will be minimized.

Another form of co-operation developing out of the industrial needs of the region concerned is to be found in the project which will first be worked out in twelve western states. Especially imperative at the present time when the spring wheat is about to be harvested is the question of farm labor, and a plan already being tried out in a limited way, provides that the rural telephones of the section shall be called into voluntary service. Through the use of the telephone companies as a medium, farmers will be brought into communication with the nearest representative of the Employment Service, and their needs for help in harvesting will be met from qualified registrants on the list of the service.

Such suggestions are of course mere indications of the way in which co-operation of labor employers with the work of the government boards is being effected. Certain results in the direction of heightened efficiency of labor, together with increased production of war essentials must be reached. Conscription of the necessary labor is not possible. No one would be able to or indeed wish to compel laborers to do designated kinds of work at a fixed rate of wages. All that can be done is to have general government rulings, together with a central Employment Bureau to make possible the changes required. Ultimately it rests with the employer and employees to make these plans 100 per cent. efficient.

dock or docks in New York large enough to take vessels of the Leviathan type. If the National Government will not finance such an undertaking it might be backed by bonds of the larger steamship companies.

Ninth—Public education.

The Commissions should prepare the public for its final report by a gradual process of education, as did the New York City Zoning Commission by—

1—Publication of a series of preliminary reports.

2—Conferring with organizations and associations; industrial, business and civic.

3—Constantly widening publicity as the plans of the Commission grow.

The City Club is of the opinion that from the beginning of the Commission's work it should issue bulletins which will inform the public of the lines of investigation which the Commission is undertaking. In this way public opinion will be carried along with the work and preparation will be made for intelligent consideration of the final recommendations of the Commission. It may be too, that from time to time citizens and civic organizations will be in a position to offer suggestions of value.

Cost-Plus and Other Contracts.

There has been considerable criticism during the last year of the contracts between the Government and the builders of cantonments and other Federal construction work. Presumably a great part of the invective and inuendo indulged in by these critics was due to ignorance rather than to positive knowledge of any wrongdoing or undue profiting on the part of those directly concerned.

The same kind of unfounded rumors and biased arguments have prevailed with respect to these Government contracts as the country was surfeited with regarding the Browning gun, the aeroplane and shipping programs, the feeding and clothing of the army, and many other activities of the war administration. The source of a good many of the disconcerting statements that were circulated broadcast is too well known to need recalling. It was ineffective because even if the Kaiser had spent many times the $30,000,000 he is credited with having placed at Bernstorff's disposal to corrupt America he would not have been able to whitewash to a semblance of purity his ineffacably fatuous and iniquitous record.

It is just as well, however, to have presented to the readers of the Record and Guide the other side of the Government's dealings with the contractors and this has been clearly and ably done by Mr. Paul Starrett, president of the George A. Fuller Company, which has been one of the largest organizations doing Government work, and which built the largest cantonment, Camp Funston at Fort Riley, Kansas, at a cost of $7,843,000, including a fixed fee of $250,000.

Mr. Starrett's candid and clarifying presentation of the cost-plus and other forms of Government contracts leaves nothing to be desired and disarms whoever tries longer to venture unfavorable comment on the patriotic motives of those public-spirited men who have placed their ably-manned and thoroughly-equipped and organized forces at the disposal of the Government at a minimum cost to the people.

Mayor Mitchel's Death.

Once again has this great metropolis shown its splendid spirit and its readiness always to accord honor to whom honor is due. As our people paid their last tribute of respect and affection to Lincoln and Grant, impressively and reverently, so now they have subordinated all else to a fitting tribute to that remarkable young man, Major John Purroy Mitchel.

Only a few months have passed since Mr. Mitchel left the Mayor's office to enter the military service of his country, yet during that short time he had further cemented the affection of his close friends and had gained the genuine respect of many others who then discovered in Major Mitchel fine qualities they had not realized were possessed by Mayor Mitchel.

New York City has had to share with the rest of the country the privilege of unusual honor to this young man who, until the United States entered the war, had been almost wholly a New Yorker in thought and action. When he became Major Mitchel the entire nation, predisposed in his favor by his public career, because interested in his work work. No longer was his fine spirit and his genuine patriotism best known to his intimates in his home city. People in many states and our fighters abroad were keen over his progress in the branch of the service to which he had volunteered, and splendid achievements for him in France were confidently predicted.

With all these hopes shattered by his untimely death, the entire nation has given fine proof of its genuine grief. Here in his home city, where he had won the respect even of those who did not agree with him as to various public matters, John Purroy Mitchel has been sincerely mourned, and his memory has been accorded every mark of respect which a great community could offer.

Never was a finer tribute paid to a New Yorker, and the impressiveness of it all has been accentuated by the fact, now realized by so many more people than before, that the future must have had in store wonderful usefulness for a man capable of having achieved so much as Major Mitchel had crowded into the few years of life allotted to him.

Tax Revision Necessary.

The National City Bank sends out a call for a keener interest on the part of every individual in the community in developing his capacity and usefulness, and in promoting a reciprocal interest in the great organized scheme of industry. After declaring the war has revealed unsuspected resources and unprecedented productive capabilities and that the conclusion is irresistible that if the same energy and spirit can be continued after peace is restored and devoted to construction and production, the entire level of living conditions can be raised above that of the past, it is pointed out that the people must respond to the common interest.

"It is apparent," says the bank, "that an intelligent citizenship, quick to appreciate its responsibility, willing to make sacrifices for the common good, and capable of a high degree of organization, makes for the power and security of the nation."

If the nation is to reach and retain that commanding position in world affairs foreshadowed in its activities since the war began it must not be shackled by obsolete and burdensome regulations of state and local governments that have a tendency to prevent this full fruition of its industries.

There is no greater brake on industry than unjustly heavy taxation of the property on which and the buildings in which the organization and accomplishment of industry is effected.

Higher Fares Inevitable.

An application for permission to charge a seven-cent fare on its various lines has been made by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and this brings to the front once again the urgency of a proper adjustment of this question on all the transportation lines in the metropolis.

Most of the discussion on higher fares has revolved around the six-cent rate, but it may soon be demonstrated that even that rate will not meet the situation. Over in Boston, the dispatches bring out, it may be found necessary to increase the fares on the elevated lines to seven cents. In Buffalo the street car companies recently have been authorized to charge a six-cent fare, while in Troy and other up-state cities public sentiment is declared ready to sustain an increase to that rate.

These signs of the times from other cities cannot be long ignored. Higher fares on the various lines in the metropolis are inevitable, and the sooner the authorities grant them, just that much sooner will one important public problem be disposed of.

Let those who ride pay. That is the only sensible policy to pursue, and it ought to be adopted without further delay.

Readers' Comment on Current Topics.

July 11, 1918.

Editor of the Record and Guide,

I read with considerable interest the statement of State Tax Commissioner Merrill published in the last edition of your paper. I was especially interested and gratified in reading the following from the article:

"If every property holder was obligated by law to render a sworn statement of the value of his holdings with a reasonable description thereof to an assessor, and the present inefficient scheme discontinued, much greater values would be found than we know of even in reality, and the values of personalty would prove astounding."

This has been the attitude of this Department ever since the present Commissioners were appointed. It will be remembered that during the last session of the Legislature, I caused to be introduced bills providing for a listing system such as Mr. Merrill suggests, with a reduced rate on personalty. If said bills had passed I am confident that the real estate tax would be greatly reduced, and then we would be able to fix a definite tax on realty. I am glad to know that at the next session of the Legislature I will have the support and co-operation of Mr. Merrill.

JACOB A. CANTOR, President,
Department of Taxes and Assessments.

New York, July 9, 1918.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

The great increase in maintenance costs of managing and operating buildings in addition to the increased costs of insurance and taxes suggests the question: Why should the owner assume the extra costs without any means of redress? All these additional costs are unknown to him when he signs the lease, and why should he be asked to assume an unknown cost. In other words, why should an owner make a five or ten-year contract to give a tenant the whole or part of a building at a fixed price—which price is, of course, based on investment return, plus the carrying charges, taxes, insurance, and maintenance, all of which carrying charges are not fixed, and without any control of his, have been increased, and may be further increased.

The owner could not make such a contract with his tenant to deliver him goods for five years at a fixed price. The tenant would promptly say that, as he could not make a five-year contract with his labor or with his supply house, he would not assume such an obligation. He might add, that he would make such a contract, based on the present prices of labor and materials, and any additional cost would be an additional charge. Why should not the contract between the owner and the tenant for a building, or even a loft in a building, be on the same basis?

In a twelve-story loft building, where the rent is now $5,000 a loft, and where the taxes are, say $8,000 a year, and the insurance and operating costs $16,000 a year, why not make the rent $3,000 a year, plus a monthly charge of one-twelfth of the costs. At the end of the year any difference in costs of these charges, either more or less than estimated, could be adjusted. This would produce two results. The owner would be getting a fair deal, and would know what he was getting from his property, and a second and very important result would be that the tenant would be a direct taxpayer, and would be interested in the tax rate, and also in the management and care of the property. Just think what this would mean if every large buyer of space was interested in the tax rate, and vitally and financially interested in the building he occupies! Every additional point in the tax rate would touch him in a vital point, and every waste that he makes in the carrying on of his business would affect him. Tenants are careful of their light and gas bills, because it affects them directly, and the care of their premises and the many wasteful ways of their employees would equally interest them if they knew they had to pay for them. Think this over, and you will see how fair it is to everyone.

It is unfair and unjust for an owner to be asked to make a contract for his property that not one of his tenants would make for theirs.

In the past such a progressive step would not have been possible, but today and for a long time ahead, when space is in demand, owners can insist on such a change. If a dozen of the large renting agencies would insist on such terms in their leases, it could be made universal. Today the owner with space to rent is sought after, and he can demand terms and conditions that he could not have hoped for a year ago. With the high cost of labor, and materials, and the inability to secure loans and even materials, it will be some time before building operations will be begun, and the owner who has a building and space to rent ought now to see to it that he gets a just and fair lease.

There is nothing unjust or complicated about the arrangement propose, and there is no good reason why it should not be carried out. Tenants may claim that they would not know what their rent would be. Well, they hardly know what the cost of their labor and materials are now from month to month, but they have the opportunity to change their prices, and raise their prices as the cost advances, and if they find their rent plus the carrying charges are increased, they have the remedy of increasing the price of their output—whereas and owner, under the present arrangement, is helpless and finds his net results from his investment decreasing without any remedy. And the tenants would be getting just as good service and accommodation in their buildings as they would be willing to pay for.

They might not be so solicitous about heat and other conveniences, if they knew they were paying for the coal, etc. It is well worth thinking it over, and giving it a try; and now is the time to try it.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Forfeiture and Rescission.

WHERE the defendants purchased land on installment contract, entitling the vendor to declare a forfeiture for default in payments, and the vendor's agent gave collateral contract entitling the vendees to rescind and be repaid the amounts paid by them at any time after six months from the sale, and the vendees defaulted in payment and the vendor gave notice of forfeiture, the Washington Supreme Court held, Bock v. Celleyham, 171 Pac. 525, that the vendees could not then give notice of rescission for dissatisfaction with the land, since, when an election was once made under either of such claims, the contract was for all purposes at an end.

Exclusive Agency.

Where the owner of property lists it for sale with a broker for a definite period on specified terms and definite commission for making such sale by the broker is specified, the North Dakota Supreme Court holds, Starks v. Springate, 167 U. W. 221, that the owner of the property may, during the period of time specified in the agency contract, sell the property through other agents, but cannot do so and relieve himself from liability to pay the agent who had the property listed for a certain time his commission as specified, where such agent, with no notice of any sale by another agent, and within the time, produces a person ready, able, and willing to buy the property upon the terms stated in the agency contract.

Right to Broker's Commission.

The North Carolina Supreme Court holds, Raleigh Real Estate Co. v. Mosser, 95 S. E. 498, that a writing given to a broker stating "I agree to trade my house, No. 407 Polk Street, for lot No. 6 in Cameron Park, together with $1,350, difference coming to me," etc., was a mere option, which could be withdrawn at any time, and was not a valid contract to convey. If the broker had procured a bona fide purchaser who was able and willing to take the property upon the owner's terms as stated in the option, and so notified the defendant at the time the defendant undertook to withdraw the property, the broker was entitled to recover.

Listing Lands With Brokers.

The Iowa Supreme Court holds, Kiser v. Crawford, 166 N. W. 576, that a letter closing the correspondence by which an owner authorized brokers to sell his lands stating that commission would be paid on all lands listed in that letter, but also stating that this was only a partial list of lands the owner had to sell, did not preclude recovery of commission for the sale of lands not listed therein.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 19 as against 22 last week and 16 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 5 as compared with 8 last week and 6 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 14 as compared with 14 last week and 10 a year ago.

From the Bronx 11 sales at private contract were reported as against 6 last week and 8 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 46 of this issued.

Building in Three Recent Deals.

It was rumored this week that the Metropolitan apartment house at the southwest corner of Broadway and 88th street has again been sold, this being the third sale within the two weeks. Bing & Bing, the present owners, purchased the property last week from Black, Starr & Frost, who had previously acquired it in a $2,000,000 trade with the Oceanic Investing Co. for the building at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and 48th street. The Metropolitan is seven stories high on a plot 100.8x100. It was erected about twenty-five years ago by William J. Merritt.

Dwelling Figures in Two Sales.

The dwelling at 24 East 64th street figured in both public and private sales this week. First the house was offered in foreclosure proceedings at the stand of Samuel Goldsticker in an action brought by the City Real Estate Co. against Cornelia G. Ford Bruchell to satisfy a judgment of $47,782 and interest. It was taken by the plaintiff on a bid of $48,000. The parcel was immediately resold at private sale by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Co., the purchaser being announced as Norman L. Zeno. It is a four-story building, on a lot 21 by 100.5, near Madison avenue.

Parker Sloane Buys Residence.

Parker Sloane, president of the United States Alloys Corporation of New York and Buffalo, manufacturers of aeroplanes, has bought for occupancy the former home of Warner Van Norden at 8 East 62d street. The house, which has been in the market at $200,000, was acquired by Mr. Sloane through Pease & Elliman, as brokers, from the Assets Liquidation Co., which took it over a few years ago. It is a five-story American basement dwelling on a lot 25x100. Mr. Sloane plans to make extensive alterations to the house. At present he resides at 347 West 87th street.

Bronx Apartments in Sale.

The Ulster Court Corporation, Joseph G. Abramson, president, bought from the Taroff Construction Co., Inc., Charles Schlesinger, president, two apartment houses recently completed by the company. The larger one is at 306 East 180th street, southeast corner of Valentine avenue, on plot 68x113. It is a five-story building having twenty-five rooms on a floor. The annual rent is over $12,500. The other property is at 230 East 173d street, southeast corner of Eastburn avenue. It is a 5½-story and basement house, on plot 47x95, with eighteen rooms on a floor, and having an income of $9,000 per annum. Both parcels are in the West Bronx, located two blocks east of the Concourse, and were held at $170,000. The transaction was for all cash. Heller & Sussman were the brokers in the deal.

Apartment House in Resale.

Louis Chaskin purchased from the Shelby Realty Co., Henry Friedman, president, the five-story apartment house, known as the Massasoit, at 116 to 120 West 129th street, on a plot 75 by 100. Mr. Chaskin promptly resold the property to the Valentine Avenue Realty Co., of which George Heller is president, Philip D. Shapiro represented Mr. Chaskin as attorney in both transactions.

Manhattan.

South of 59th Street.

PEARL ST.—Wm. A. White & Sons have sold 69 Pearl st to O. P. Olsen & Co., dealers in ship supplies.

15TH ST.—Duross Co. sold for Margaret L. Hamilton to Patrick J. Malloy the 3-story dwelling, 18.9x81.3, at 333 West 15th st.

49TH ST.—A. H. Levy sold for the W. & J. Realty Corp. to A. Udow, plumber, for investment, the 6-story new-law tenement, with three stores, on plot 37.6x100, at 345 and 347 East 49th st, between 1st and 2d avs. The buyer will occupy the stores as a plumbing shop.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Market Experiences Considerable Activity—
Important Leases Constitute Prime Features

DURING the past week there has been considerable activity in all phases of the real estate market and a number of deals of prime importance were consummated. Generally this is the height of the mid-summer dullness, when business slacks off to a large extent, but the week just closed has been a noteworthy period for the number and character of the deals it has produced.

Activity has not been closely confined to any particular locality or to any single type of transaction. The large deals were well scattered throughout the city and involved private dwellings, apartments and business properties. The demand for private residence properties was particularly marked and was a strong feature of the realty market during the past week.

In the past the principal buyers of residence properties have been home-seekers and investors and although the majority of sales are still being made to these interests, a new factor has entered the situation in the form of the operator. Frederick Brown, well known as a real estate operator purchased from John H. Parker the five-story residence at 24 East 62d street. This property stands on the city assessment rolls at $80,000.

Apartment house properties also figured prominently among the sales of the week and a number of these passed into new ownerships. The Upper West Side, Harlem and the Bronx all figures in apartment house deals of considerable magnitude, and with the scarcity of available housing space and the approach of the autumn renting season there is every reason to anticipate continued activity along this line.

From Brooklyn quite a number of sales involving one and two-family dwellings have been reported and brokers who have figured in these transactions state that there is quite an active demand for properties of this class that future sales will undoubtedly grow steadily in volume.

The renting market also has experienced a fair amount of activity during the past week and a number of important properties, including two large hotels, have figured in transactions involving long term leases. Brokers interested in renting apartment properties report a number of early leases for accommodations in structures under their control. A large percentage of these deals are for the continuation of occupancy of present tenants, the scarcity of available space having influenced tenants to remain where they are situated and to pay the generally increased rentals asked for the coming year.

54TH ST.—Schindler & Liebler and A. J. Norman sold for the Hoguet Estate 2 5-sty flats, 236 and 238 East 54th st, 50x100.5. John McKeon is the buyer and gives in part payment 2 3-sty single flats at 806-808 Jackson av.

BOWERY.—Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Co. sold for Ernest E. Lorrillard 178 and 178½ Bowery, size 25.3x100 ft. a 2-sty building, located on the west side of the Bowery 25 ft. north of Kenmare st (extension of Delancey st). The purchaser is I. Blyn & Son, shoe dealers, who own the corner adjoining, and now control a corner of 50.3x100 ft. At the expiration of the present lease on 178 and 178½ Bowery it is the intention of I. Blyn & Son to improve the entire corner with a new building.

North of 59th Street.

HAMILTON TER.—Stephen and Belden Roach have resold 36 and 38 Hamilton ter, two 3-sty high-scoop dwellings, each on a lot 19x100. The property, which is located between 142d and 143d sts, was acquired by the sellers in foreclosure proceedings several years ago. W. J. Huston & Son were the brokers in the transaction. William Schwartz was the buyer.

105TH ST.—The Beth Hamidrash Hagodol of Harlem, a religious organization which owns the property at 108 to 112 East 105th st, has added to its holdings by purchasing, through Henry Bach, the 2 3-sty dwellings adjoining, at 114 and 116, on a plot 37.6x100. The building at 108 is now occupied as a home for aged Hebrews, and the plot at 110 to 112 is improved with a synagogue. After alterations have been made the newly acquired houses will be used in connection with the home.

109TH ST.—David Lion purchased from Frederick Brown the 5-sty tenement at 332 East 109th st, on a lot 25x100. The house is assessed at $18,000.

109TH ST.—Walter H. Liebmann bought from J. M. Laroche 308 East 109th st, a 4-sty tenement, 28.6x100.11, located 100 ft. east of 2d av.

113TH ST.—Van Vilet & Place sold the dwelling at 244 West 113th st for Martin Dienst to Mary Robinson.

117TH ST.—Oscar D. & Herbert V. Dike sold a private house at 367 East 117th st for Harry Aaronson to Wm. J. Overocker.

119TH ST.—Mrs. Elizabeth Pickering, the tenant, has purchased from the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Co. the 3-sty dwelling at 125 West 119th st, on a lot 20x100.

123D ST.—The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank sold 431 East 123d st, a 3-sty and basement house, 16.8x100.11, to Joseph Milano. Thomas J. O'Reilly was the broker.

130TH ST.—David Lion and Samuel Kilpatrick bought from the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company the 4-sty dwelling 217 West 130th st, on lot 20.6x100. J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co. negotiated the deal.

AUDUBON AV.—Honora Kearney sold the northeast corner of 166th st and Audubon av, 100x95 ft, partly improved by a private residence and held in the market at $70,000 to a client of Joseph P. Day.

Bronx.

FAILE ST.—C. E. Adler, represented by Walter M. Wechsler, as attorney, sold to an investor for cash 1036 Faile st, a 3-sty 2-fam. dwelling, 20x100, one of a row built by the American Real Estate Co. The seller took the property over last Wednesday in a foreclosure action.

FOX ST.—Benenson Realty Co. purchased from David Davis, 881 Fox st, a 5-sty flat, 72.5x100, with rentals aggregating about $10,000 per annum.

147TH ST.—Gilbert Elliott has purchased from Elsie Cohen, 460 East 147th st, a 5-sty apartment house, on a lot 25x100, between Brook and Willis avs. The property has been held at $90,000. David S. Gerstenfeld was the broker.

178TH ST.—The 5-sty apartment covering the block front on the south side of 178th st between Marmion av and Southern blvd was bought by Frederick Brown from Hattie Goldschmidt, represented by M. V. Rich. The house yields more than $13,000 per annum and was held at $100,000.

HOLLAND AV.—Hudwill Corp., Hudson P. Rose, President, purchased the 2-fam. house at 1827 Holland av. The same company also sold the 4-sty flat at 623 East 134th st. Both were cash deals.

MURDOCK AV.—The Benenson Realty Co. sold to a client of Thomas J. Adams two lots, 50x100, on Murdock av. The buyer will build a dwelling and garage.

PELHAM RD.—Hudson P. Rose Company sold the dwelling 1731 Pelham rd, on lot 25x100, to Francis Nathan.

WADSWORTH AV.—According to reports the 6-sty apartment house on plot 78x100, at 130 Wadsworth av, southwest corner of 180th st, has been purchased by the Charles Galewski Co., Inc. The property is fully rented and has been on the market at $175,000.

WASHINGTON AV.—Cahn & Pittman have purchased the three-4-sty brick and stone flats at 1367, 1371 and 1373 Washington av, each on a plot 27x136. Schwab & Co., negotiated the sale.

WEBB AV.—Frederick Brown sold to a client of Brooks & Momand 2436 Webb av, near Fordham rd, a 5-sty apartment house, containing accommodations for 21 families, on plot 48x100. It is fully tenanted, yielding an annual rental of over $8,000. In part payment Mr. Brown took 348 Madison st, a 16-fam. tenement, with two stores, 23x95, free and clear, between Scammel and Jackson sts. Title to the latter property is now held by Clarence Morgan Coddington. The Webb av. house is the southerly one of two similar buildings acquired by Mr. Brown last month from John C. and P. J. Dwyer.

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
Lawyers Mortgage Company

RICHARD M. HURD, President
JULY 1, 1918

The total sales of Guaranteed Mortgages for the first half of 1918, including extensions, amount to $18,637,782. The total Guaranteed Mortgages outstanding amount to $144,682,808.

Of chief importance to lenders in New York is the improvement in the fundamentals of the real estate situation. The absence of new building for several years accompanied by steady increase of population and the large amount of new war business which has come to New York have combined to raise rents. Higher rents, even with higher expenses, mean stronger and eventually higher values. The first result, now quite noticeable, is the psychological effect on real estate owners which causes them to hold on to their properties and lessens the number of foreclosures. New York is the largest city in the world and its population must have homes and business buildings. Loans carefully made on this improved real estate form the safest mortgage security in the world.

The Gross Earnings and Net Profits of the Company for the first half of recent years are as follows:

The Assets and Liabilities of the Company have been verified and the Company's accounts certified as of June 30th, 1918, by the Audit Company of New York.

The outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages of the Company are divided among the customers of the Company as follows:

45 Savings Banks .....	$15,389,950
242 Charitable Institutions .....	12,542,397
15 Insurance Companies .....	6,998,415

4566 Individuals .....	65,554,232
6427	$144,682,808

The Company now has under foreclosure 35 mortgages amounting to $768,600, some of which will probably be settled prior to sale. The foreclosed real estate owned by the Company on Jan. 1, 1918, amounted to $1,116,792, and since then real estate amounting to $564,346 has been added, making a total of $1,681,138. From this, during the past six months, the Company has made sales amounting to $663,578, so that the amount now stands at $1,017,560. In addition, the Elemco Realty Company and Lawyers Mortgage Company hold title to real estate on which are outstanding $183,909 of mortgages held by assignees. And for convenience in perfecting title the Elemco Realty Company holds title temporarily to real estate on which are $150,600 of mortgages held by the Lawyers Mortgage Company. The foreclosed real estate and mortgages under foreclosure are only one-half the amount at which they stood on January 1, 1916. The amount of interest delinquent for more than one month is $11,606.

Since December 12, 1894, when the Company began business, 17,840 mortgage loans have been made, aggregating, including extensions, $528,000,000, without loss of a dollar to any of our investors.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has secured a ground lease with privileges of renewal aggregating a period of fifty years of the plot 38 to 40 Broad street, running through to 34 to 36 New street, containing approximately 7250 square feet. W. W. Bosworth has been retained as architect and Marc Eidlitz & Sons, Inc., as builders, to erect thereon a six-story building, to be utilized by the company as its principal cable operating terminal and commercial office. The company has found its present cable quarters at 8 to 16 Broad street and 62 Broadway entirely inadequate for handling the large increase in the volume of cable business since 1914 and particularly since the United States entered the War. It is purposed to transfer the cable employees and move the cable terminals from the present offices to the new building as soon as the latter is ready for occupancy. The facilities for handling the cable business will be greatly improved in the new quarters and the location of the commercial office will be accessible and convenient for the public. The property belongs to the owners of the Johnston Building, and this is composed of Mrs. Robert W. De Forest and Mrs. Francis J. Marley. The brokers were the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Co.

Globe Wernicke Co., Leases Warehouse.

The Globe Wernicke Company has leased from the Astor Estate for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of $200,000, for exclusive warehouse purposes, the building at 134 to 140 Grand street, northeast corner of Crosby street, on a plot 100x125, and containing 90,000 square feet of space. This building is equipped with special elevators, conveyors and all other modern facilities for insuring quick delivery of furniture in the Metropolitan district. The lessee selected this location on account of its close proximity to its main showrooms at 451-453 Broadway, which property it purchased and reconstructed for exclusive office and showroom purposes. This is the largest building exclusively used by one firm in New York for this line of business. Other retail branches operated in New York by the Globe Wernicke Company include 6 East 39th street; the Standard Oil Arcade, 50 Broadway, and 30 Church street. The Charles F. Noyes Company has acted as the broker for the Globe Wernicke Company in all of its transactions.

Theatre Sites Leased.

Selwyn & Co. announced that they had concluded negotiations with Sperry & Hutchinson for the leasing of the site at 215 to 223 West 42d street, running through to 228 to 234 West 43d street, with a frontage of 105 feet on 42d street, and 75 feet on 43d street. Two theatres will be erected on the site, which has already been excavated. It is understood that the rental will be $75,000 a year plus taxes, for a twenty-one-year term, with renewal privileges. Sperry & Hutchinson were represented in the deal by Stoddard & Mark as attorneys, while Ernest & Cane acted for Selwyn & Co. A six-story theatre and office building is now being erected on adjoining property to the west.

Knott Brothers Add to Hotel Chain.

Sheriff David H. Knott and his brothers, J. E. and W. J. Knott, who already conduct ten hotels in this city, a number of which are in Washington square section, have negotiations underway for adding another to their chain. They will lease the Hotel Albert, at the southeast corner of University place and 11th street, one of the largest hostels in that section. It is known as 67 to 75 University place and 42 to 50 East 11th street. On the corner is a seven-story structure, and adjoining on the street is one of five stories. The latest addition was a twelve-story building on University place. The entire property contains 386 rooms, and is under the management of F. E. Anderson. The Messrs. Knott manage the Holley, Judson and Earle on Washington square; St. Andrew at Broadway and 72d street; Hotel le Marquis, 12 East 31st street; Berkely, 20 Fifth avenue; Van Rensselaer on East 11th street; Madison Square, 37 Madison avenue; Hotel Irving at 26 Gramercy Park, and the Whittier Inn at Sea Gate. This week they had incorporated at Albany the 42 East Eleventh Street Corporation with a capital of $25,000 to take over the Hotel Albert.

Important Hotel Lease.

The Hotel Hamilton Corporation, owner of the hotel in course of construction at 141 to 153 West 73d street, near Broadway, has made a 21-year lease of the property to a corporation being formed, of which I. Fluegelman is to be president. The structure is being erected under the new zoning law and is a model in every detail. It contains three hundred and eleven rooms and two hundred baths, with every modern equipment, and is to be operated as an apartment hotel. The Hotel Hamilton Corporation was represented in the deal by H. B. Davis, its attorney, and Henry Fluegelman acted for the lessee. The aggregate rental will be over $2,000,000, the rental being at the rate of $95,000 a year. George B. Corsa negotiated the lease. The property carries a first mortgage from S. W. Strauss & Co., secured under their amortization plan.

Lease of Plant for Army Depot.

The War Department has acquired for use as an army depot the ten-story plant of the Merchants Refrigerating Co., occupying the entire block bounded by Tenth avenue and Marginal street, 16th and 17th streets, and covering a plot 197.3x184x285.7x356.8 feet. A railroad spur will connect the structure with the tracks of the New York Central Railroad and will considerably facilitate the transfer of military supplies.

One Hundred Per Cent. Rental Increase.

The remarkable strength of real estate in the lower East Side district is emphasized by the fact that the Charles F. Noyes Co., who recently sold 113-115 Broad street and 27 Front street to Carl Platou, and who have exclusive management of all the properties controlled by Mr. Platou, has renewed the lease at 27 Front street for five years at an increase of one hundred per cent. in the rental, and the rents of all stores in the Broad street building have been doubled. Mr. Platou contemplates extensive alterations to the property and will occupy a portion of the building for his own purposes.

Milliners Lease on Fifth Avenue.

Space in 570 Fifth avenue now occupied by Pickslay & Co. has been rented to Maison Aubry, wholesale and retail milliners, for a period of ten years from September 1, at an advance rental. The lease was negotiated by Nathan H. Gregory for Mrs. Elizabeth I. Howe, represented by Walter T. Stern, of Coleman, Stern & Gothold. The lease involves the store and basement. The new tenant is now located on 34th street and carries its wholesale business under the name of Germaine, Inc.

Addition to Silk Colony.

Horiskoski & Co., dealers in Japanese silks, have leased from the Hapson Estate a three-story building to be erected at 71 Madison avenue. Starrett & Van Vleck are the architects. The property has been taken for a long term of years and the lessee expects to take possession of the new building in October. William A. White & Sons were the brokers in the deal.

Sixty Acres of Floor Space in One Federal Job

Great Quantities of Lumber, Asbestos and Other Building Materials Used in Construction of Shell-Making Plant

LATE in December, 1917, a 1,500-acre tract in New Jersey, consisting of about equal parts of scrub timber and clay bank, was selected as the site for the largest of the Government's four artillery shell-loading plants, which are the largest in the world. Today there stands on that site a forest of buildings instead of trees; railroad tracks and hard-surfaced roads wind through the clay banks; empty shells are being filled, varnished and marked—ready for the big guns overseas.

Six months after construction contracts were signed this plant, requiring 2,000 tons of material daily and capable of turning out 52,000 loaded shells a day when in full operation, is nearly complete, except for the installation of about 25 per cent. of the mechanical equipment. Construction is well under way on additional storage buildings.

The problem was not one of construction alone, although 2,494,700 square feet of floor space, or nearly sixty acres, are called for by the plans. A small city with its heating and lighting plants, water and sewerage systems, had to be built to house a part of the employees. There are four restaurants, capable of accommodating 5,000 men at a meal; a hospital, police department, fire department and fire-fighting apparatus had to be provided and extensive equipment was necessary to protect the health of the thousands who will have to work with poisonous explosives. A school for instruction in the loading of artillery ammunition with high explosives was an incident in the requirements.

In May the plans were changed to include greatly increased storage facilities for both loaded and unloaded shells, and the ground then added to the original site gives the plant a total area of approximately 2,500 acres. More than 100 buildings, with a total floor space of 1,300,000 square feet, are going up to provide storage for shells and parts, not only for this plant, but also for the materials and output of several other smaller establishments located nearby.

The shell-loading plant is being built for the Government by a private company, about $11,000,000 being the maximum which may be expended for construction. The first step in construction work, which started early in January, was to provide housing facilities for about 2,500 of the more than 5,000 men who have been steadily employed in building work. As rapidly as construction is completed, these houses become the homes for the operative labor which is brought in.

Row after row of dormitories sprang up through the heavy snow; dozens of dwellings soon were added. All of these buildings, as well as the offices, hospital, restaurants, club houses, barracks, police and fire houses, laundry and fumigating rooms, are of frame construction. California bungalows, set back from the streets and surrounded by war-garden yards, are the homes of the married members of the administrative staff. It takes twenty dormitories with a total floor space of more than 114,000 square feet to house that portion of the unskilled labor which cannot find accommodations elsewhere in the neighborhood. Nine large dormitories provide quarters for the skilled laborers of the plant; there are four inspectors' quarters; three guard barracks; two buildings for housing the restaurant employees, and quarters for foremen and drivers. Almost 250,000 square feet of floor space is included in the housing buildings alone.

In anticipation of the prolonged winter the heating plants went up with the houses. There are two central heating plants, each with a capacity of 2,500 boiler-horse-power, and each capable of independent operation. Huge overhead mains, covered with wool-felt, line the streets, and, in some places supported by scaffolding, bridge distances of hundreds of yards between houses and operating buildings.

Great crews of laborers worked steadily through rain and snow, and in frozen ground laid pipes to carry water in every building from the 2,000,000-gallon reservoir. Seven wells bring fresh water from 300 feet below ground, their total capacity being estimated at 1,800,000 gallons daily. In case of fire an automatic supplementary salt-water system will operate to keep the big reservoir full. Fire-fighting arrangements permit the play of twelve streams on any building at one time, with a nozzle pressure of 35 pounds and a capacity of 3,000 gallons a minute.

As a fire protective measure, the main buildings in each unit are located one hundred feet apart, and shells in process of filling are carried from one building to another by means of belt conveyors. More than 30,000 feet of belt conveyors have been installed. A shell leaving the storage rooms to be loaded goes first to a cleaning room, where any dirt is removed. From the cleaning table a belt carries it to shellac machines, and after receiving a coat of shellac it dries for an hour.

There are under construction thirty-three high explosive storage magazines, equipped with bulkheads 12 to 15 feet in height and from 3 to 15 feet in thickness; nineteen warehouses, 50x500 feet, are to provide storage room for loaded shells. There are under construction twenty-seven additional 50x500 feet warehouses to accommodate empty shells, boxes and parts. All of the motors for operating machinery in the shell-loading units are housed in separate buildings to minimize fire danger.

Thirty-five miles of railroad trackage have been laid, requiring at one place a half-mile trestle to bridge a gorge. An interplant railroad system will eventually cover 38 miles.

A fully-equipped hospital with a 16-bed capacity will take care of minor injuries and poisoning cases. The medical staff includes a chief surgeon, two assistants, four internes and nurses. In addition, there is a first-aid room at each shell-loading unit.

A force of from 170 to 200 men is necessary for guarding and police work. Mobile fire apparatus supplements the stationary equipment, and the plant maintains a two-shift corps of fire fighters.

Two well-equipped club houses are at the disposal of the employees. Baseball grounds and tennis courts have been laid out, and a moving picture theatre is under construction. The plant maintains a large laundry, and a fumigating plant to take care of the clothes worn by the operatives in the shell-loading rooms.

In all 350 electric motors are required, power being generated by a plant having a capacity of 3,500 kilowatts. Over 28,000,000 board feet of lumber were used in construction work. For the buildings in the operating units 5,500,000 square feet of asbestos metal covering and 750,000 square feet of asbestos lined lumber were required; 1,000,000 square feet of wall board have been used.

Concrete Literature.

The Portland Cement Association, 111 West Washington street, Chicago, Ill., and 101 Park avenue, New York City, is conducting an aggressive campaign to promote the interests of concrete construction and the use of Portland cement and is distributing a large number of attractive pamphlets taking up different classes of work adapted to the use of concrete, describing the structures, and illustrating their details and methods of construction that have been found satisfactory. Some of them contain suggestions of value to contractors who are not specialists in the particular lines discussed. These and others can be obtained by application to the Chicago office.

A partial enumeration of these pamphlets includes the following: Bulk Cement, Its Common Sense and Economy; Protecting Concrete Work Done in Warm Weather; Fundamentals of Reinforced Concrete Designs, Standard Specifications and Tests for Portland Cement; Facts Everyone Should Know About Concrete Roads; Concreting in Cold Weather; The Concrete Road; That Alley of Yours; Cement Stave Silos; Concrete Facts About Concrete Roads; The Wayne County Concrete Road System; Concrete Pressure Pipe and Concrete for Housing.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

ACCORDING to current reports from authentic sources in various parts of the country it would seem as though building activity of a private nature was slowly gaining in volume notwithstanding the serious deterrents to the full measure of this type of business. The reports indicate that building conditions have improved materially during recent weeks within the Metropolitan district and considerable new progress is noted in localities in close proximity to this territory.

The recent announcement of the War Industries Board to the effect that whenever possible the construction of private building operations would be permitted to proceed without hindrance has served to dispel considerable of the gloom that has hung over the building industry for some time. This naturally does not mean that all construction will be encouraged but that priorities will be granted for such work as will not interfere with the national program of construction or requisition materials and supplies needed for the erection of some structure or other project that will contribute to the winning of the war. In view of the changed situation there are many now who predict a satisfactory volume of building business in the future.

During the past week a number of entirely new projects were announced, some as merely proposed but others presented to the trades for estimates on construction and there is reason to believe that a fair percentage of this work will be allowed to proceed without undue delay. Included in the activity of the week were a number of important structural contracts placed, that if started at once, will have a tendency to increase the new optimism of the building industry.

Architects, contractors and prospective builders have about arrived at the conclusion that building costs will not recede for a long time and that on the contrary there is every reason to expect a steady increase in the prices of certain commodities. Therefore, a number of interests who have contemplated new structures, have decided to start as soon as possible and to take advantage of the present prices while they last.

Federal building operations remain as the predominating feature of the present situation and according to recent reports from the Capital there is a large amount of Government work still to be undertaken and for which plans are being prepared. The industrial housing program is rapidly maturing and preliminary allotments from the $60,000,000 appropriation have been made for a number of industrial housing projects within the Metropolitan district and the territory contiguous.

The building material markets are almost uniformly quiet, with demand slightly improved and prospects of increased business ahead. Prices are firm in all lines and the tendency is almost wholly toward higher levels throughout all branches of trade.

Common Brick.—But slight comment is possible upon existing conditions in the wholesale common brick market. Extreme quietude prevails in all phases of the situation and although both manufacturers and dealers anticipate a more active market during the autumn months none are willing at the present time to hazard a guess as to the prospects for the next eight or ten weeks. The demand for Hudson River common brick is extremely light. Barge arrivals from up-river points are correspondingly slow and it is the latter fact that has tended to maintain the wholesale price at the present high level. Notwithstanding the slow demand there is no large reserve unsold in the wholesale market and with the limited rate of production this season there is no immediate prospect that the wholesale price of Hudson River commons will be materially reduced. The Raritan situation is unchanged. Producers are working at only a low rate of production and what brick is being made is being sent to New Jersey points. None of the brick from this section is at present available for New York delivery.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, July 12, 1918. Condition of market: Demand fair; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $11.50 to $12 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 15; sales, 14. Distribution: Manhattan, 5; Brooklyn, 6; New Jersey points, 1; Outside points, 2.

Structural Steel.—Aside from Government requirements there is little activity in this line owing to the scarcity of private building operations that call for fabricated steel in large tonnages and the difficulties that contractors are experiencing when only moderate supplies are needed. There are quite a number of large projects already planned and which would undoubtedly proceed immediately if the possibility of obtaining structural steel could be assured. There are sufficient other materials for almost any character of building project and the labor market is in a position to supply the required mechanics and laborers. There are signs that under recent ruling of the Priorities Committee of the War Industries Board more material will be made available for ordinary needs and this seems as though the building industry might possibly obtain a slight measure of relief.

Wire Products.—The War Department recently placed orders for 300,000 kegs of wire nails for shipment to France, deliveries to run through the next eight months. Mills are generally sold up on wire nails for many months ahead and the stocks in the hands of the jobbers are depleted with no immediate prospect of replenishing. At the present time producers refuse to accept orders for either wire or wire nails except for Federal use unless the applicant is able to show a priority certificate. Government prices, effective until September 30, are as follows: Wire nails, $3.50 base, per keg, and bright basic wire, $3.35 a hundred pounds.

Window Glass.—Business is very dull in this line and neither manufacturers or jobbers anticipate an early improvement in the situation. Demands from building sources are practically out of the market owing to the scarcity of structural activity throughout the country. Production has practically ceased and it is not expected that the factories will resume operations before late next autumn or early in the winter. The plate and window glass interests are looking forward to the annual convention of the industry that will be held in Atlantic City July 23 to 25 at which important plans for the coming year will be presented. At the present writing the schedule of manufacturers' discounts remains unchanged.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Labor scarcity is the prime difficulty of the manufacturers of cast iron pipe and producers are behind in deliveries owing to the trouble involved in getting and holding labor. Business is not particularly active and manufacturers state that they would be unable to handle the usual municipal business if it were presented to them. Current quotations are as follows: 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, $61.75, New York; 4 in., $64.75, and 3 in., $71.75.

White Lead.—As a result of the recent advance in price and the possibility of further increases in the near future buyers are anticipating their demands and have ordered with considerable freedom of late. This has brought considerable activity to the market and maintained prices firmly at the present level. Current New York prices are as follows: Basic carbonate in oil, less than 500 pounds, $13.50 per hundred pounds. American dry, in casks, 9½c. to 10½c. per pound. Red lead is in fair demand but there is less call than for white and jobbers are generally well supplied.

Linseed Oil.—The trend of the market for this commodity has been upward for some time past owing to the scarcity of oil. Jobbers' stocks are at a low ebb and the crushers will not be able to deliver new supplies before next autumn. Meanwhile the demand is fairly active in all consuming lines with the exception of the building trade and even from this source business has recently picked up somewhat.

Face Brick.—Market conditions are quiet and although actual sales are relatively few there are quite a number of important structural operations pending that will consume face brick in large quantities and which dealers are looking forward to. Prices are fairly stabilized and there is no prospect of a recession from the high levels for a long time.

Hardware and Tools.—Manufacturers of these commodities recently announced important advances in their price schedules made necessary because of the steadily increasing production costs. Wages are still climbing and raw materials are high and scarce. This applies particularly to metals.

Plaster.—Prices are firm with the current wholesale quotations for Mason's finishing in 250-pound barrels at $2.85; in 100-pound jute bags at $23.00 a ton, with $0.30 rebate for bags; dry mortar is being quoted at $14.05 a ton with a $0.30 rebate for returned bags. The demand is not heavy and the market reflects the general quietude in building activity.

Cut Nails.—There is extreme difficulty in obtaining new supplies of cut nails both on account of the scarcity of raw materials, including iron and fuel and troubles due to the unsatisfactory labor situation.

Fay Kellogg, Architect, Dies.

The architectural profession has lost one of its most interesting and talented members by the death of Fay Kellogg, architect, suffragist and farmer, who died at her home, 295 McDonough street, Brooklyn, Wednesday, July 9. Miss Kellogg was born in Milton, Pa., forty-seven years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Kellogg. She came to Brooklyn with her parents as a young girl and received her early education in the public schools, after which she studied architecture at Pratt Institute. This was followed by lengthy studies abroad, at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, in Paris, and other leading centers of art and culture.

As an architect Miss Kellogg had been closely associated with a number of the leaders in the profession and was conceded by all to be prominent among the foremost women architects of the country. Fay Kellogg worked with Carreré & Hastings and John R. Thomas on the Hall of Records, designed the building for the American News Co. and other important structures.

Bids Received for Brooklyn School.

Bids were opened during the week by the Department of Education of the City of New York for the construction of a large school building for Public School No. 29, to be located at Baltic and Henry streets, Brooklyn. The lowest bidder was the James MacArthur Co. of Brooklyn, with a bid of $494,724. Owing to the conditions now maintaining the cost of building is considerably greater than in ordinary times. It has been claimed that under the system of construction approved by C. B. J. Snyder, superintendent of school buildings, that there will be no difficulty in obtaining necessary materials for the construction of this building. Although construction costs are high at this time it is generally conceded that there is no prospect of a reduction in structural costs within the next few years, rather that there may be an increase in construction costs during the balance of the war and also during the period of reconstruction immediately following.

Contract for Fleischman Const. Co.

A general contract has been awarded to the Fleischman Const. Co., 531 Fifth avenue, for the erection of the three-story theatre building, with stores, and offices and apartments above, at the northwest corner of Broadway and 81st street. This structure will occupy a plot 150x200 feet, and will be constructed of brick, with facades of face brick and terra cotta. The owner is the 181st Street Construction Co., Benjamin S. Morse, president, 729 Seventh avenue. The plans and specifications were prepared by De Rosa & Periera, architects, 110 West 40th street. This operation will represent an expenditure of approximately $500,000.

Large Refrigerating Plant Projected.

Armour & Co., 120 Broadway, contemplate the erection of an eight-story refrigerating plant, to be built of reinforced concrete with brick curtain walls, and to occupy the entire block bounded by Tenth avenue, Marginal street, 15th and 16th streets on property recently purchased. The plans will be prepared under the direction of R. C. Clark, engineer for the Armour Co., Chicago, Ill. This project will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Benjamin Dreisler, architect, 153 Remsen street, Brooklyn, desires catalogues and samples of asbestos and asphalt shingles.

Richard S. Childs of Brooklyn was recently appointed Associate Housing Director for the War Department. Mr. Childs is an authority on Industrial housing and is the author of a number of books on the subject.

George A. Fuller Co. has secured the contract for the construction of an office building at Bethlehem, Pa., for the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., from plans prepared by the firm's engineers. Cost approximately $300,000.

William J. Yennie & Co., Inc., announce that owing to the severe accident sustained early last April by William J. Yennie and which has confined him indoors in the hospital for the past fourteen weeks, the firm will undertake no additional contracts for the time being. The acceptance of new business will be suspended until such time as Mr. Yennie has recovered sufficiently to give building projects his personal supervision. According to recent reports from Mr. Yennie's physician he will not be able to resume activity for at least eight weeks. The office of the firm will be kept open, however, and it is expected that conditions will permit the resumption of active business early next September.

GOVERNMENT WORK.

Advance information relative to operations for Federal Authorities.
